1970 A.D.—not merely a new year, but a new decade. A decade in which pollution might be controlled, a war ended or the outer limits inhabited. But to the student at Morton Senior High School this particular year was quite unique. In this time lapse new friendships were made, new ideas were explored, and needed improvements were added to some out-dated school regulations. All attempts to describe the Governors' emotions throughout the year would be in vain, as words alone cannot begin to define what pictures reveal with one glance. Thus, by the use of both pictures and words we were able to more distinctly interpret the display student interest in homecoming

Class rivalry and tradition played an important role in the homecoming festivities held October 10. Awarding of the spirit rock to the seniors at a pep session and the announcement of the best float added to the competitive atmosphere.

Dressed in the familiar Governor tuxedo, the Student Association President presented the homecoming court during half-time and announced the new queen, Miss Marsha Hunt. Crowned with a tiara by last year's queen, Jan Rogowski, Marsha was presented with a dozen red roses.

Floats and decorated cars added to the excitement of homecoming. The seniors' winning float theme, "Gov's Got Soul," portrayed a huge black shoe ready to crush an East Chicago Roosevelt football player. The junior float theme, "Catch 'Em in Our Trap," portrayed a gigantic mouse trap with four Volkswagons decorated like mice following behind.

ADDING THE FINAL FLOWERS to a decorated car, a group of seniors prepares an entry for the homecoming parade.

LAST MINUTE ADJUSTMENTS are made to the giant spiked football shoe by Dave Eberle and Cathie Whitney. Built by seniors, "Gov's Got Soul" received the award for the best float.

CHOSEN BY THE STUDENT BODY as Homecoming Queen for 1969-1970, Marsha Hunt reigned over the last half of the game and an annual dance held in honor of the five queen candidates. In addition to the dance the Student Association sponsored an assembly in which the girls were presented.

Theatrical students participate in spring

LOST DEEP IN THE FOREST, Gretel (Mitzi Zmigrocki) is frightened by the wicked old witch (Chris Bindas).

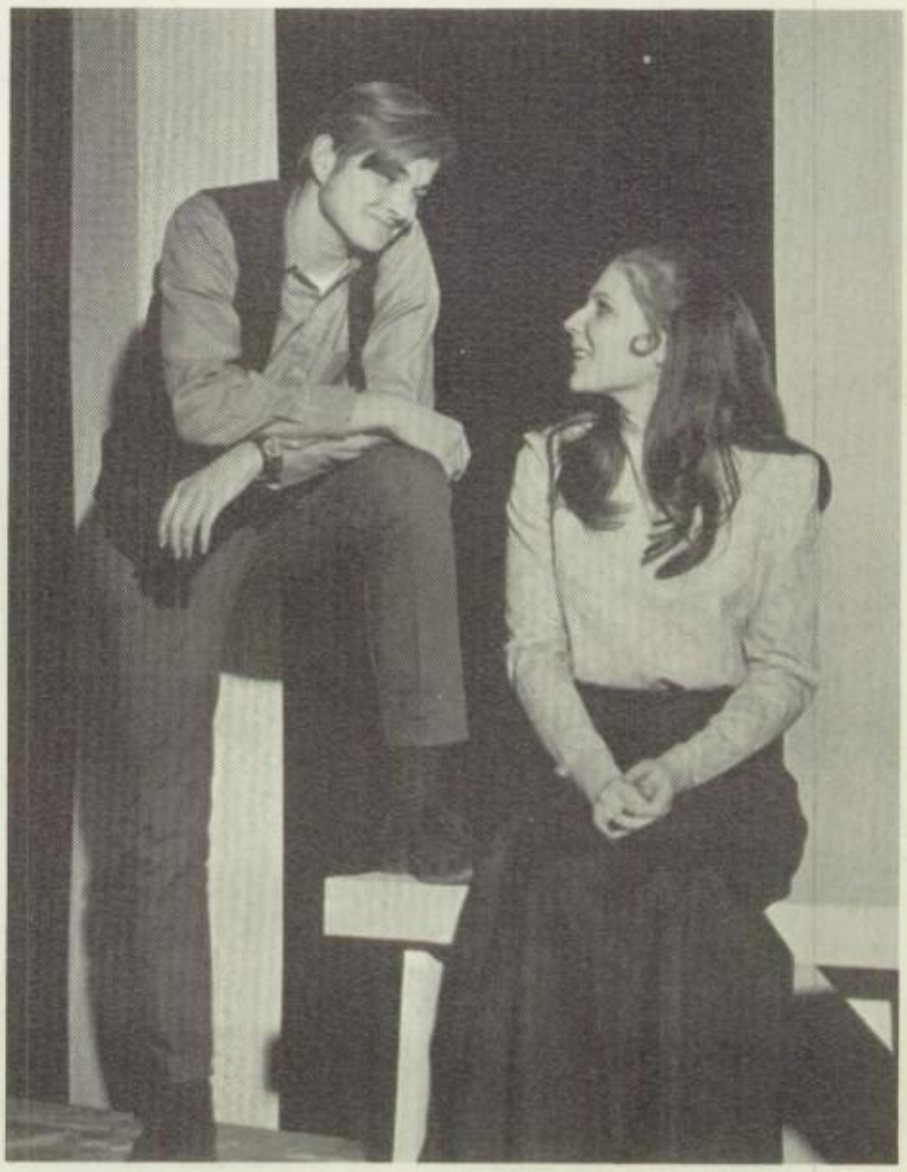
Practices, costumes and props entailed a few of the many necessary factors required to make the performance of the spring musical CAMELOT a successful one. CAMELOT depicts a medieval tale of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. His wife, the lovely Guinevere, falls in love with Sir Lancelot, only to be revealed by King Arthur's son.

Other plays given during the year included the annual children's plays, the proceeds of which went to charity. ALADDIN AND HIS WONDERFUL LAMP was directed by a student, and Mr. Stanley Elgas directed the other play, HANSEL AND GRETEL.

In November the classic comedy ARSENIC AND OLD LACE provided entertainment for young and old. This is a tale of two sweet, old women who rent rooms to sickly, elderly gentlemen. Their main objective is to put them out of their misery by giving them a homemade recipe of wine and arsenic.

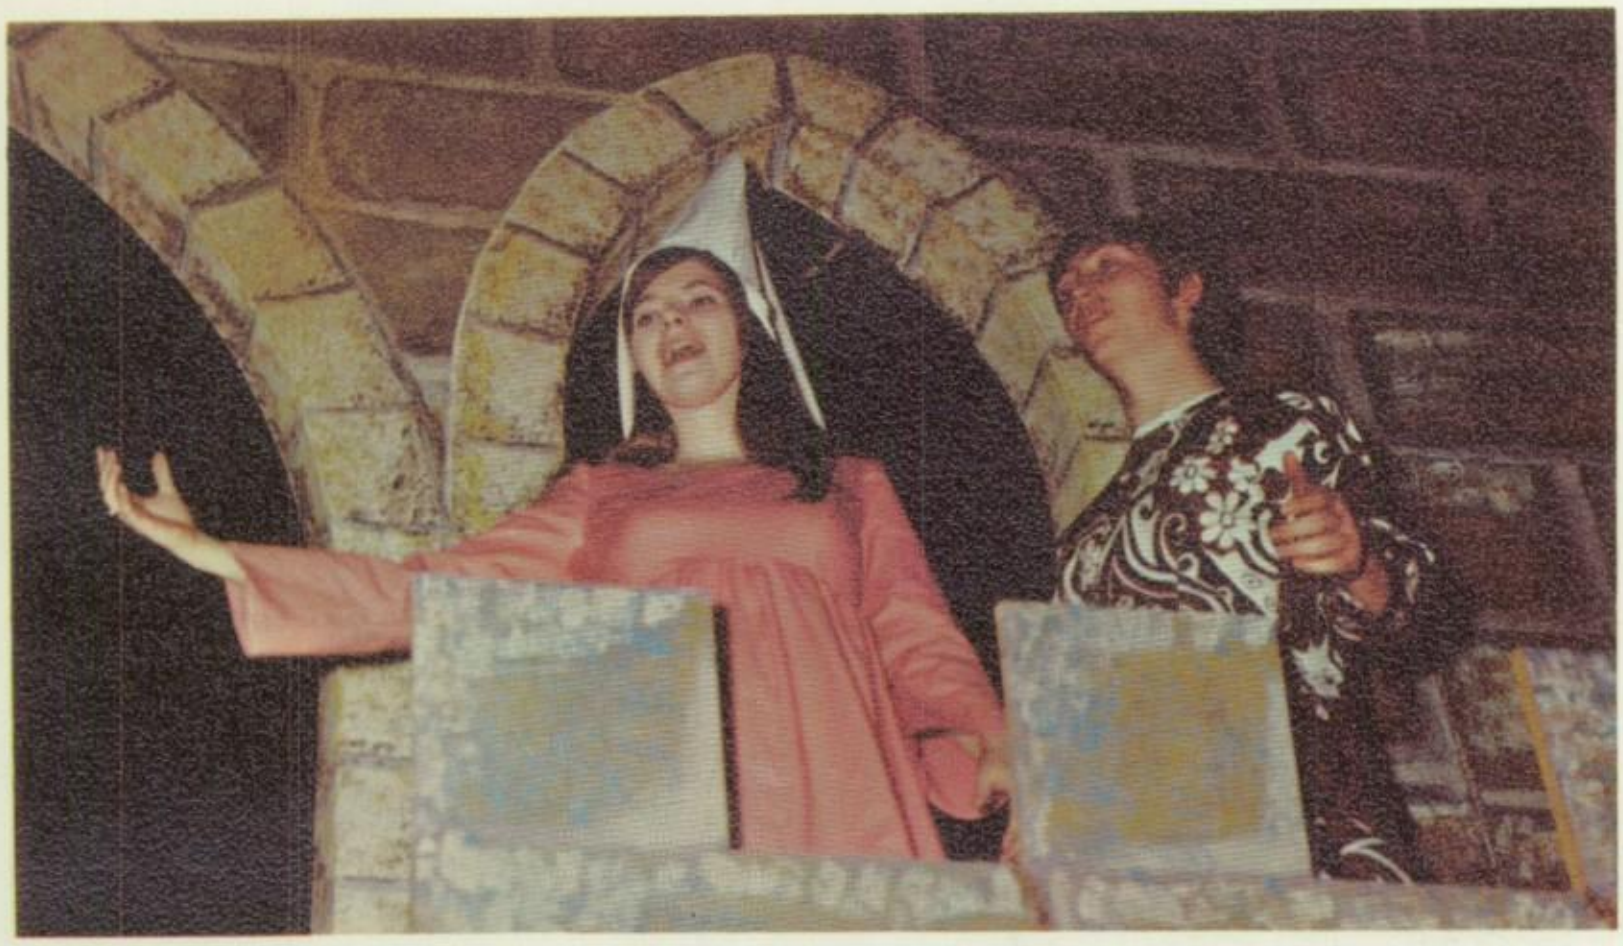
Edgar Lee Masters' SPOON RIVER ANTHOLOGY was a character sketch of the residents of a small town in Illinois. Six students portrayed roles of several townspeople through oral epitaphs.

TOTALLY UNAWARE of the deadly arsenic, Mortimer (Craig Lannin) politely accepts a glass of wine from Martha (Evie Hopf).

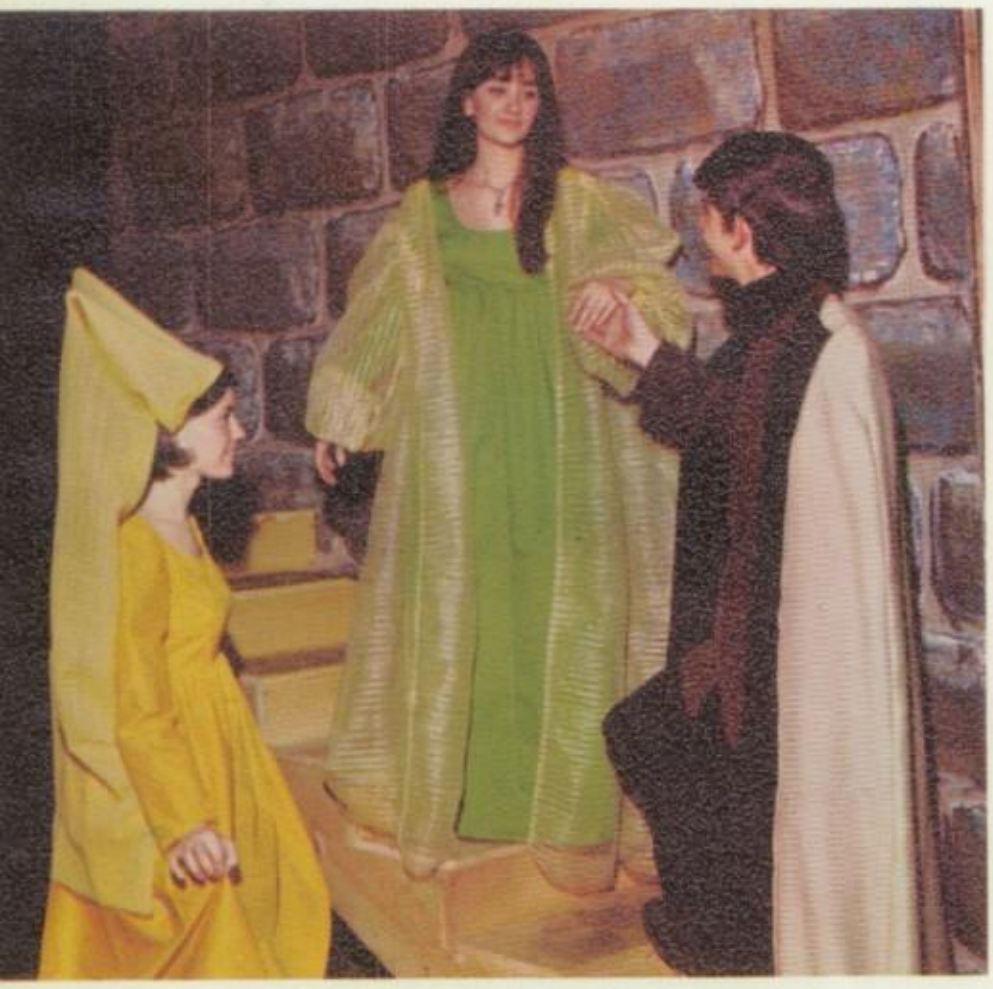


REMINISCING ABOUT THEIR MORTAL LIVES, juniors Russell Friend and Donna Korlin portray deceased small town characters in the epitaphic play, SPOON RIVER ANTHOLOGY.

musical 'Camelot' as outlet from studies



EXPRESSING THEIR ENTHUSIAM from the castle wall at the jousting event, lady of the court (Laurie Green) and a townsman (Bruce Hickman) musically cheer for their favorite knight.



HOMAGE IS PAID to King Arthur (Ken Kiral) and Queen Guenevere (Barb Genisauski) by a lady-in-waiting (Valarie Hodis).

ILLEGITIMATE SON of Arthur, Mordred (Mike Davey), devilishly dances while plotting against his father and mother.

CONFUSED FRESHMEN Tim Arvay and Tom Kingston find that a school map can help them to locate classrooms.

Orientation introduces frosh to school

Morton Senior High School was introduced to the incoming freshman class on August 28, 1969. Bulletins sent to each of the 544 students invited them to attend the annual orientation.

As the students entered the building they moved to various tables to receive their class schedules. School maps, copies of the school song and pamphlets containing Morton's code of rules and regulation were distributed to the ninth graders.

Having received the necessary papers, the students assembled in the auditorium. Principal Becker and assistant principal Mr. Mateja each gave a brief talk on his duties and the duties of each student as a loyal Governor. Mr. Chidester, head counselor, later explained the class schedules and the code numbers for the five guidance counselors. He then introduced each of them to the audience. Student Association President Mike Greene informed the students of the functions of the student government.

Following the closing remarks the students were instructed to locate their homeroom numbers on sheets posted in the west hall.

SCHEDULE IN HAND, freshman Lynn Miskovich struggles with her newly acquired stack of books, folders and notebooks.

New code alters school dress pattern

RELAXING BEFORE THE BELL, seniors Mike Greene and Randy Ladd display the latest in school fashions.

Put into effect this year, Morton's new dress code outlined proper guidelines for schoolwear. A representative group of student and faculty members compiled the new law. Following its passage, culottes and sideburns to the bottom of the ear became permissable factors of student appearance.

Below zero temperatures initiated the appearance of the maxi coat, appropriate for school or social events. Given a total look by a knitted tam, yard-long scarf and knee-high boots, the maxi helped all girls remain fashionable and warm.

Short, curly wigs and long, straight falls of every shade enabled Morton's females to alter their hair styles inexpensively. Hooped earrings and chain necklaces added to this "new look."

Popular with the boys this year, flared slacks accompanied color coordinated shirts, sweater vests and wide ties. Standard loafers or buckled ankle-high shoes completed the ensemble.

HOOPED EARRINGS and a dangling chain necklace help soph Michelle Kik to accent the new look of her synthetic wig.

FLARED PANTS, VESTS AND MAXI COATS, suitable for ball games, are modeled by Robbi Heslinga and Sue Wiggins.

Couples don formal attire for evening

SOUVENIRS OF AN UNFORGETTABLE EVENING include a floral nosegay, a prom bid and a centerpiece.

LOST IN THE ATMOSPHERE of the romantic "Moonlight Oasis" setting are Bob Wells and Chris Baker.

LOOKING FORWARD to a long anticipated evening, Bob Cantwell gives Julie Josway a bouquet of tea roses before they leave for the junior-senior prom.

of fun in 'Moonlight Oasis' atmosphere

Breaking away from the traditional prom this year, juniors decided to hold the entire gala event at the enlarged Scherwood Club in Schereville. Both juniors and their parents, through combined efforts, sponsored and planned an unforgettable evening for the 1970 Junior-Senior Prom on May 23.

Magical genies, flying carpets, Arabian tents and palm trees carried out the prom theme, "Moonlight Oasis," and transformed the evening into an Arabian night. Entranced by the setting and mood, couples danced to the music provided by Buddy Pressner from 8:00 p.m. to 12 midnight.

Remaining at the Scherwood Club but moving to a night club atmosphere, couples danced and dined at the After-Prom Party. Besides girls receiving favors, boys were also given tokens of their prom evening. The Ballantree, a seven-piece rock band, entertained with their music until 4:00 a.m.

With formal attire forgotten, students concluded their prom weekend by spending the following day at beaches, zoos or amusement parks.

MAKING A FINAL CHECK on her appearance before the arrival of her date is senior Paula Fisher.

PRE-PROM PARTY sets the mood for Steve Budzik and Carol Rhea as they discuss their plans for the evening.

DELEGATES SELECTED to attend Hoosier Girls' State are Debbie Severa, Julie Josway, Amanda Waring and Carol Bell. They participated in a week long mock government at Indiana University last summer. Due to sponsor problems, Boys' State delegates were not chosen this year.

Superior achievements lead to student

HOME ECONOMICS KNOW-HOW enabled Amy Brandenburg to receive the Betty Crocker Award. She obtained the top score on the "Homemaker of Tomorrow" test given to a group of select senior girls.

NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARSHIP FINALIST for 1969-1970 is senior Mike Rosek. He was one of 15,000 students chosen across the nation ranking as the highest scorers in their respective states.

LEADERSHIP, DEPENABILITY AND SERVICE were the three prime factors involved in naming this year's DAR award recipient Glenda Fix. Following a nomination by her homeroom, she was named the winner after a vote taken by the social studies department.

recognition, awards in academic areas

COMMUNITY CHEST PLANS are discussed by committee members Andrea Bandura, Gary Kostyo, Cindy Bailor, Mary Jo Stewart and Jack Josway. They toured local relief agencies and reported their findings to the student body.

GARBED IN A MEXICAN GUIPIL, Amanda Waring recounts to a Spanish class about her studies in Mexico last summer. Chosen under the Indiana University honors program, she attended classes while living with a Spanish family.

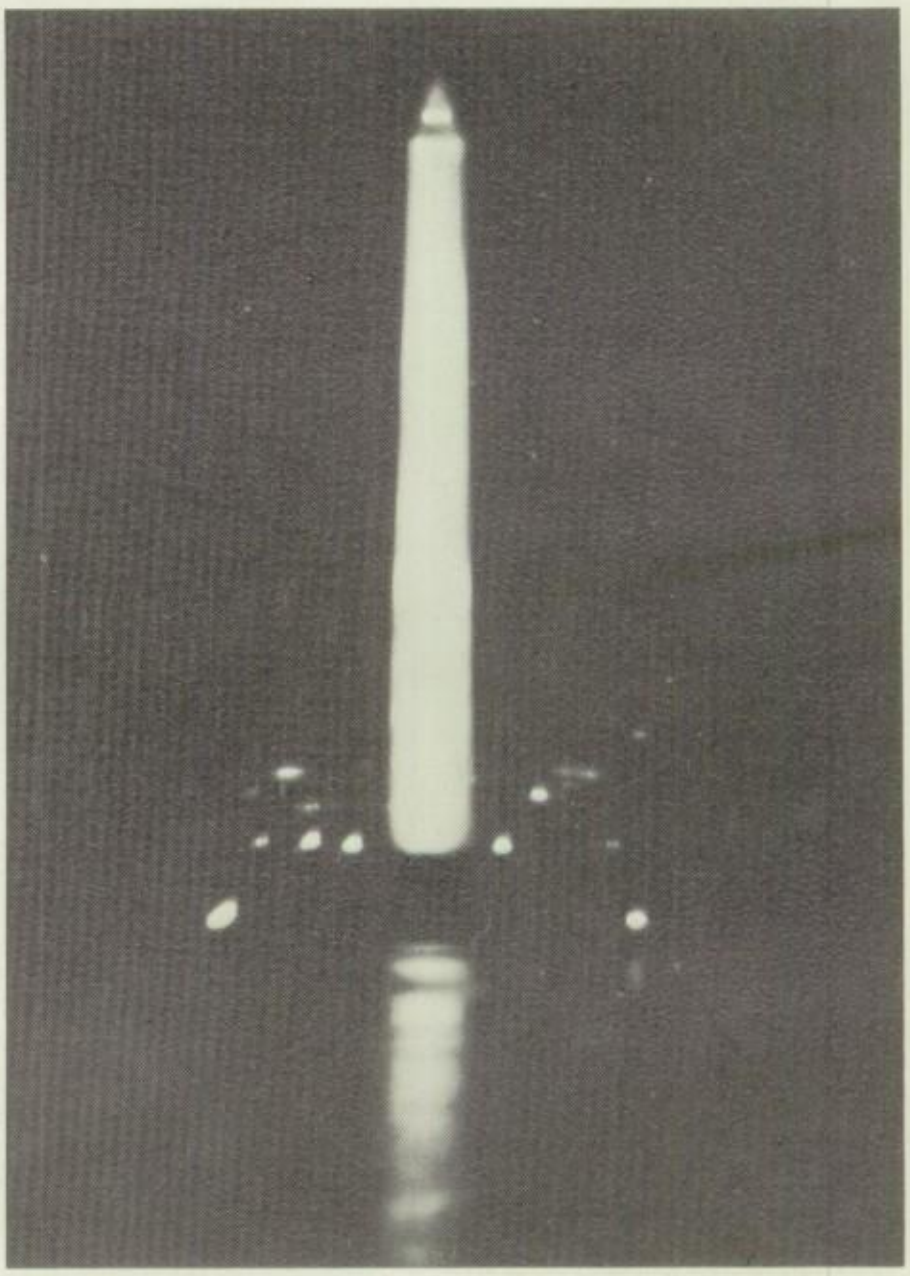
Upperclassmen explore famous places

HEAVY SUITCASES seem to be the problem of senior Karen Podkul. Luggage was kept on railings near the ceiling of the train while students slept in their seats.

Viewing sections of the states of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland interested juniors and seniors as they neared the nation's capital. On October 21 a record number of 164 Morton students left Hammond on the annual New York-Washington trip.

Touring Washington, D.C., at night and visiting a wax museum awaited the students after their arrival. The next day they were guided through the FBI building, the White House and Mount Vernon. The following day the group saw the Capitol Building and prepared for the bus journey to New York.

Wall Street and the Battery proved to be highlights of a tour of downtown Manhattan. After a ferry boat trip to the Statue of Liberty, the group saw the United Nations, Radio City Music Hall and the Lincoln Center of the Performing Arts. Bicycling in Central Park, visiting St. Patrick's Cathedral and touring Tiffany's occupied some of the sight-seers' free time in New York.



HAMMOND STUDENTS visited the historical Washington Monument on their first night in the nation's capital. Upperclassmen also toured highlights in nearby Virginia.

DURING THEIR STAY in Washington, D.C., junior and senior students were escorted through the White House. The Capitol Building was also open for tourists.

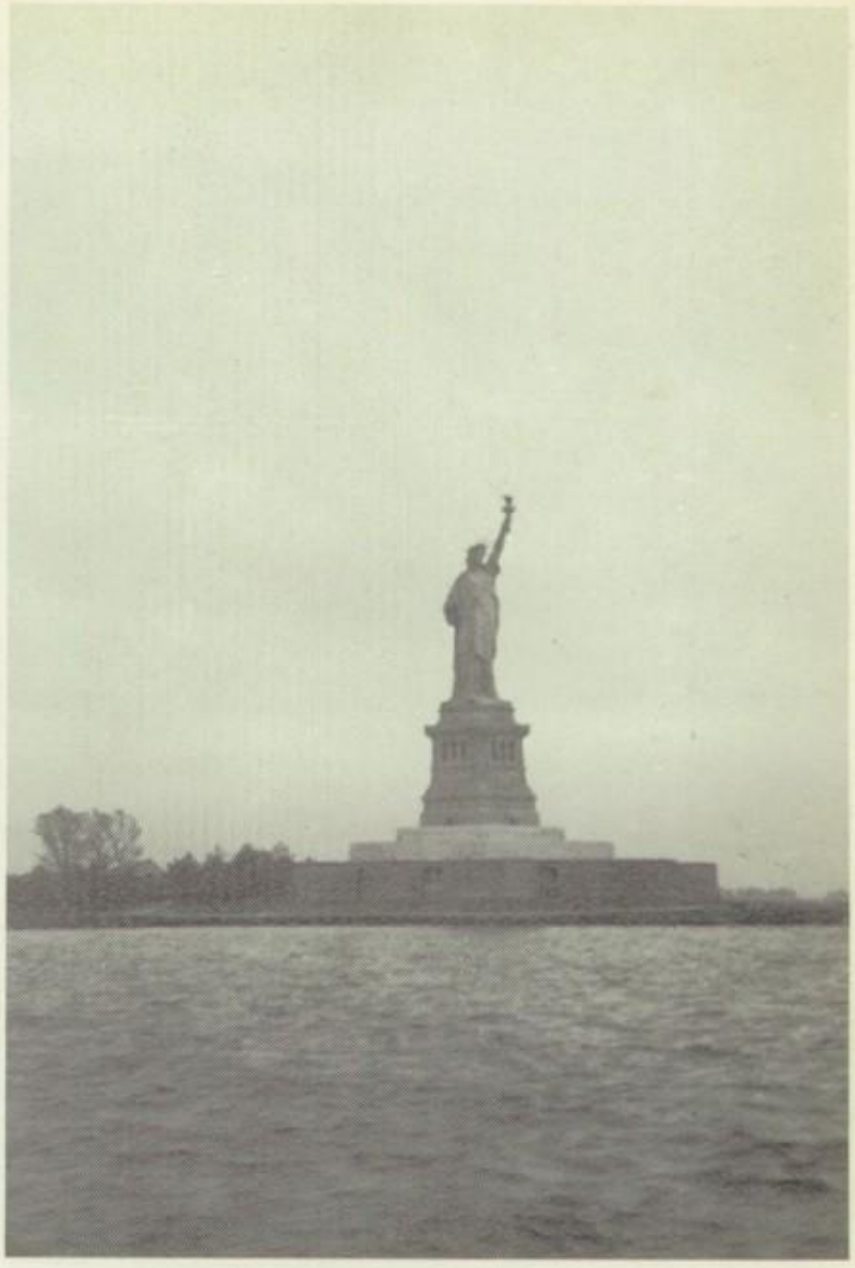
RIGID DISCIPLINE is displayed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier as students view the changing of the guard.



NICKEL FERRY BOAT TRIP provided Morton students with a perfect view of the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

ABOARD THE TRAIN, G. Buxton, S. Templeman, and V. Jones wave goodbye to family and friends as they leave on the annual Washington-New York trip.

VOLUNTEER REPRESENTATIVES S. Sinchak, M. Tomich, L. Sigler, C. Graff, C. Newnum, and J. Davey acted as refreshment hostesses by serving punch and cookies.

Music, flowers set inaugural ball mood

Transformed into a ballroom, the Morton cafeteria was the sight of the thirteenth annual Inaugural Ball. Over 240 couples attended the semi-formal affair, this year held as a "turn-about."

Honoring the newly chosen Student Association officers, couples danced to music provided by the Hal Morris band. Colorful paper flowers hung from the ceiling while paper top hats, used as centerpieces, decorated the tables. Profits from the event were added to Association funds.

DONNING HER COAT, senior Kathy Porter and her escort from Bishop Noll depart for an unforgettable evening at the annual semi-formal presidential ball.

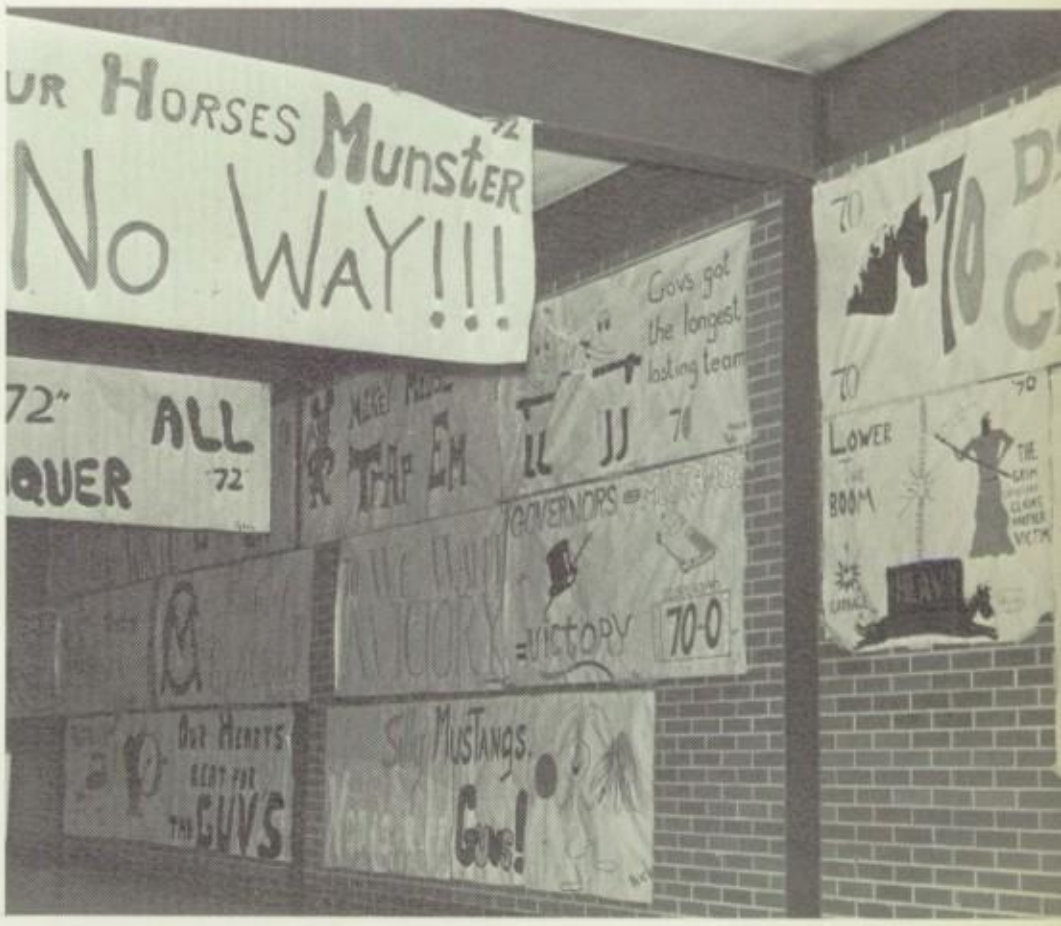
Signs, colors, pins demonstrate loyalty

Gov pins, homemade signs and red and gray clothing worn by Morton students displayed enthusiasm and loyalty in the traditional Governor style. The "spirit rock," in its initial year, was awarded to the seniors during homecoming and sectionals.

For the annual homecoming festivities, individual students and homeroom members decorated cars. Fellow juniors and seniors united to build floats.

Sectionals encouraged the Student Association to sponsor a class sign contest. In an attempt to capture the trophy for the class's best looking room, homerooms were decorated. One trophy was presented to each class at the pep assembly.

Students also demonstrated class spirit on "dress-up days" and "class color days."



"WE WANT A VICTORY" was the theme of sectional week. Classes displayed spirit signs throughout the halls.

"GOV'S RANCH FOR RETIRED MUSTANGS," theme of the award-winning freshman homeroom, creates a western atmosphere while contributing to inner-class rivalry.

MORTON'S "GOVERNOR" for all sectional activities, senior Jim Brouillette awards the sign making trophy to the class of '70. The seniors were voted by a select panel of judges to have the most original signs during sectional week.

Assemblies break monotony of classes,

"CURSE YOU, RED BARON," the infamous battle cry of Snoopy (C. Spornick), is sounded as the World War I flying ace, attired in the traditional flying scarf and cap, dodges his enemy.

CONCENTRATING ON A STAR, Schroeder (R. Gollner) and Linus (K. Kiral) express their thoughts about happiness.

launch magazine, yearbook campaigns

Second hour assembly period added variety to normal school days. The usual class periods were altered to follow one of the two assembly bell schedules. Each provided for two 45-minute sessions, which were held in the large auditorium.

Morton's Top Hat Theatre, under the direction of Mr. Donn Edwards, presented a cutting from the Broadway musical "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Two different casts were selected for performing in each of the respective assemblies.

Mortonite staff members kicked off the annual magazine subscription drive following a format of a hillbilly television show. A series of skits asked the student body to support the paper by selling a minimum of one subscription.

In the form of a 65-year class reunion, members of the yearbook staff urged all students to buy a 1970 Top Hat. Following the antics of the senior citizens, the "Wayfarers" sang some selections written to persuade students to buy a book.

At the traditional Inaugural Assembly, Principal W. Becker administered the oath of office to Student Association President Mike Greene. Cabinet, senate and house members also took a pledge.

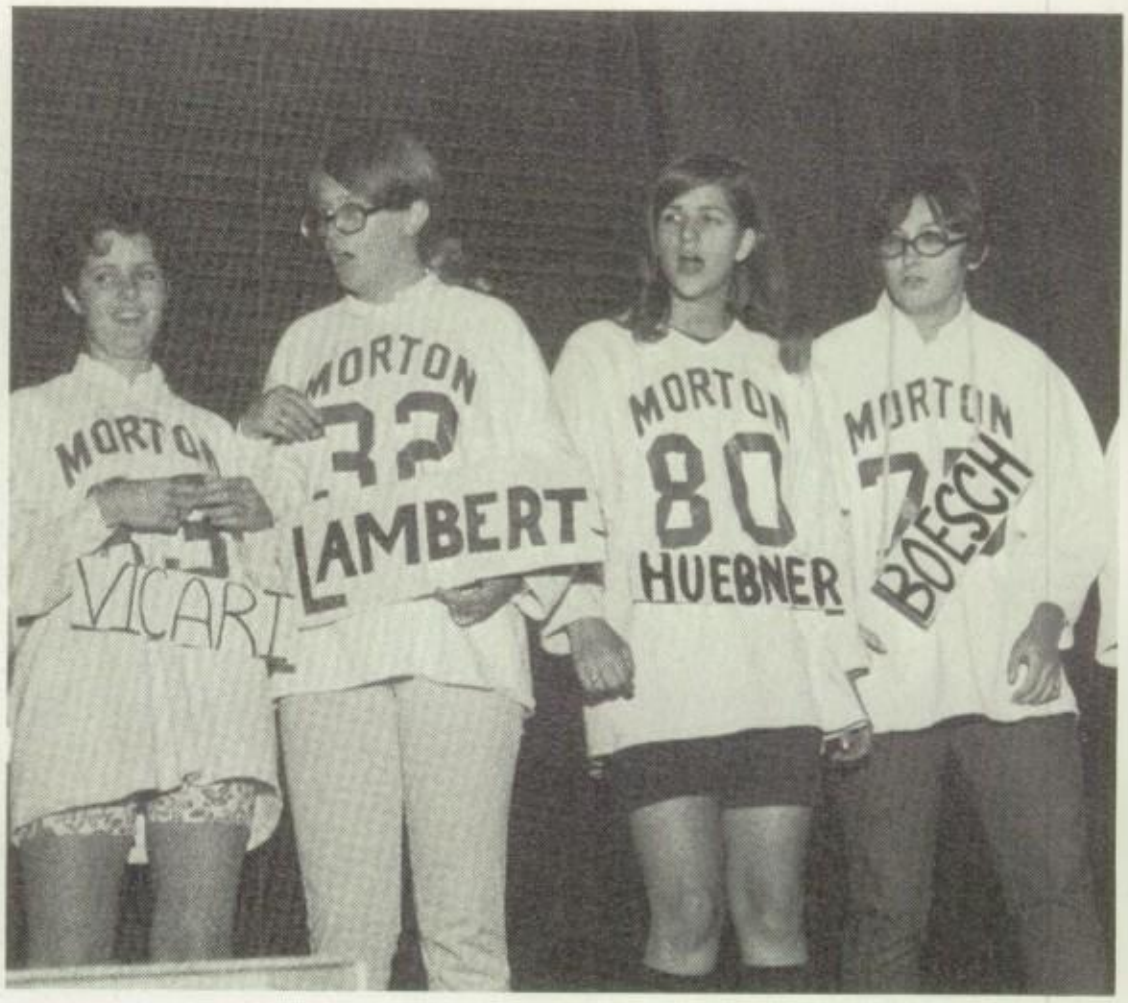
Sponsored by home economics classes, a dress assembly informed students about current styles. Both boys and girls modeled the Sears' fashions.

MORTONITE MAGAZINE SALES boosting the funds of the school newspaper were promoted in an assembly. Sue Evans and Candi Schultz lend support to the campaign.

AUDIENCE SILENCED, Student Association President Mike Greene delivers his speech to the annual inauguration assembly. Mr. Becker also addressed the student body.

Govs keep busy with outside activities,

1969 MR. FOOTBALL, senior Wes Lukoshus, holds his trophy as he is honored at the annual dance. Only ticketholders had the privilege of voting for a candidate.



IMPERSONATING UPPERCLASS FOOTBALL PLAYERS are seniors Pam Kingston, Cathie Whitney, Julie Josway and Sue Fish at the annual pep rally kicking off the football seasons. The varsity team was introduced following skits presented by the upperclassmen.

"HALF-TIME HONEYS" for the traditional basketball game between the senior boys and the faculty amuse themselves on the court.

dance after games

AS THE WORLD COLUMN PERFORMS, students gather around to hear the music. Morton clubs sponsored a number of dances after athletic events throughout the school year.

SUSPENDED IN AIR T. Lepucki blocks his opponent "Bomber" Jancich while teammate Herb Duensing guards. The Senior-Faculty game was sponsored by the Booster Club.

CROWNED MR. BASKETBALL, Wayne Bocken happily accepts his crown and trophy as he receives congratulations from Barrett Luketic at the dance.

Seniors enjoyed the last few weeks of their high school years by participating in the annual senior activities. College applications, cap and gown distribution, mailing graduation announcements and planning open houses busied the graduates.

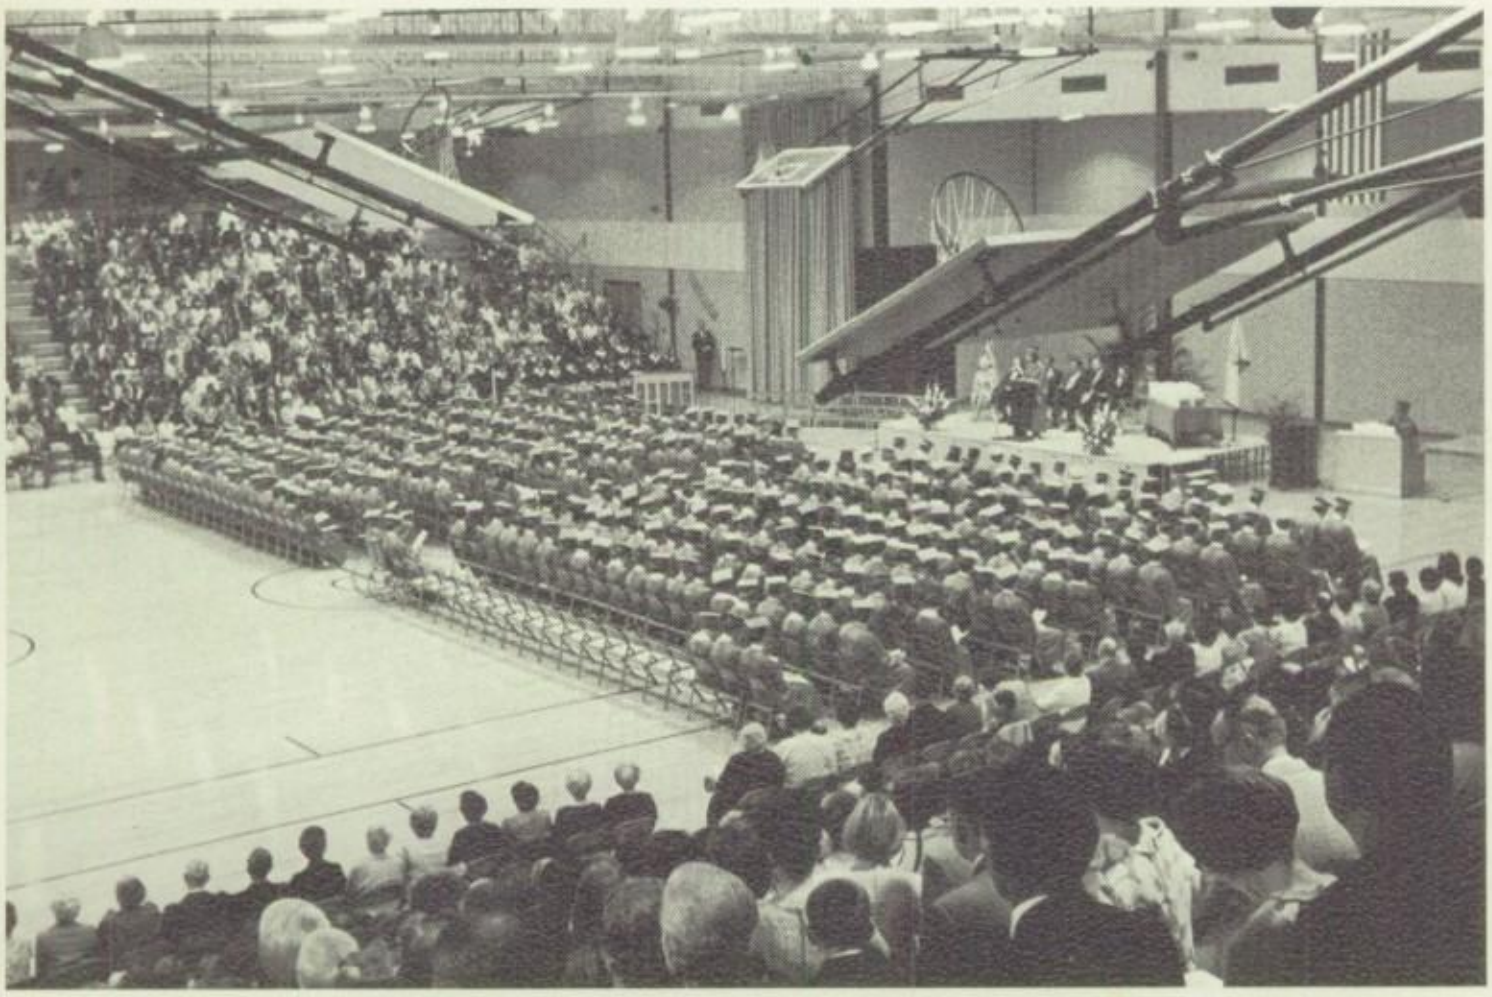
Thursday, April 30, was the date of the senior banquet held at the Log Restaurant in Chicago Heights. Guest speaker for the evening was Judge William Obermiller. Other distinguished guests included Mr. Robert Welte and Miss Jacqueline Martine, class sponsors, and Principal W. W. Becker. The class prophesy and class wills, prepared by selected committees were also presented.

The Class of '70 celebrated Senior Week by dressing in different costumes each day, ranging from "Kindergarten Day" to "Old Folks Day."

Baccalaureate services were held Sunday afternoon, May 31, in Morton's auditorium. Guest speaker was the Rev. J. A. Frink. His address and speech was entitled, "The Call of the Upper Road." Music was provided by the Concert Choir.

Graduation ceremonies were held in Morton's gymnasium Thursday evening, June 4. Seniors received their diplomas after listening to the invocation given by the Rev. C. A. Tharp. Speeches were delivered by the salutatorian and valedictorian concerning the recent past and what the future holds.

PREPARATIONS FOR GRADUATION include being fitted for caps and gowns. Senior Karen Carter demonstrates.



TOGETHER FOR THE LAST TIME, graduates recall their four years of high school life at Morton as they meet in the gymnasium for commencement exercises.

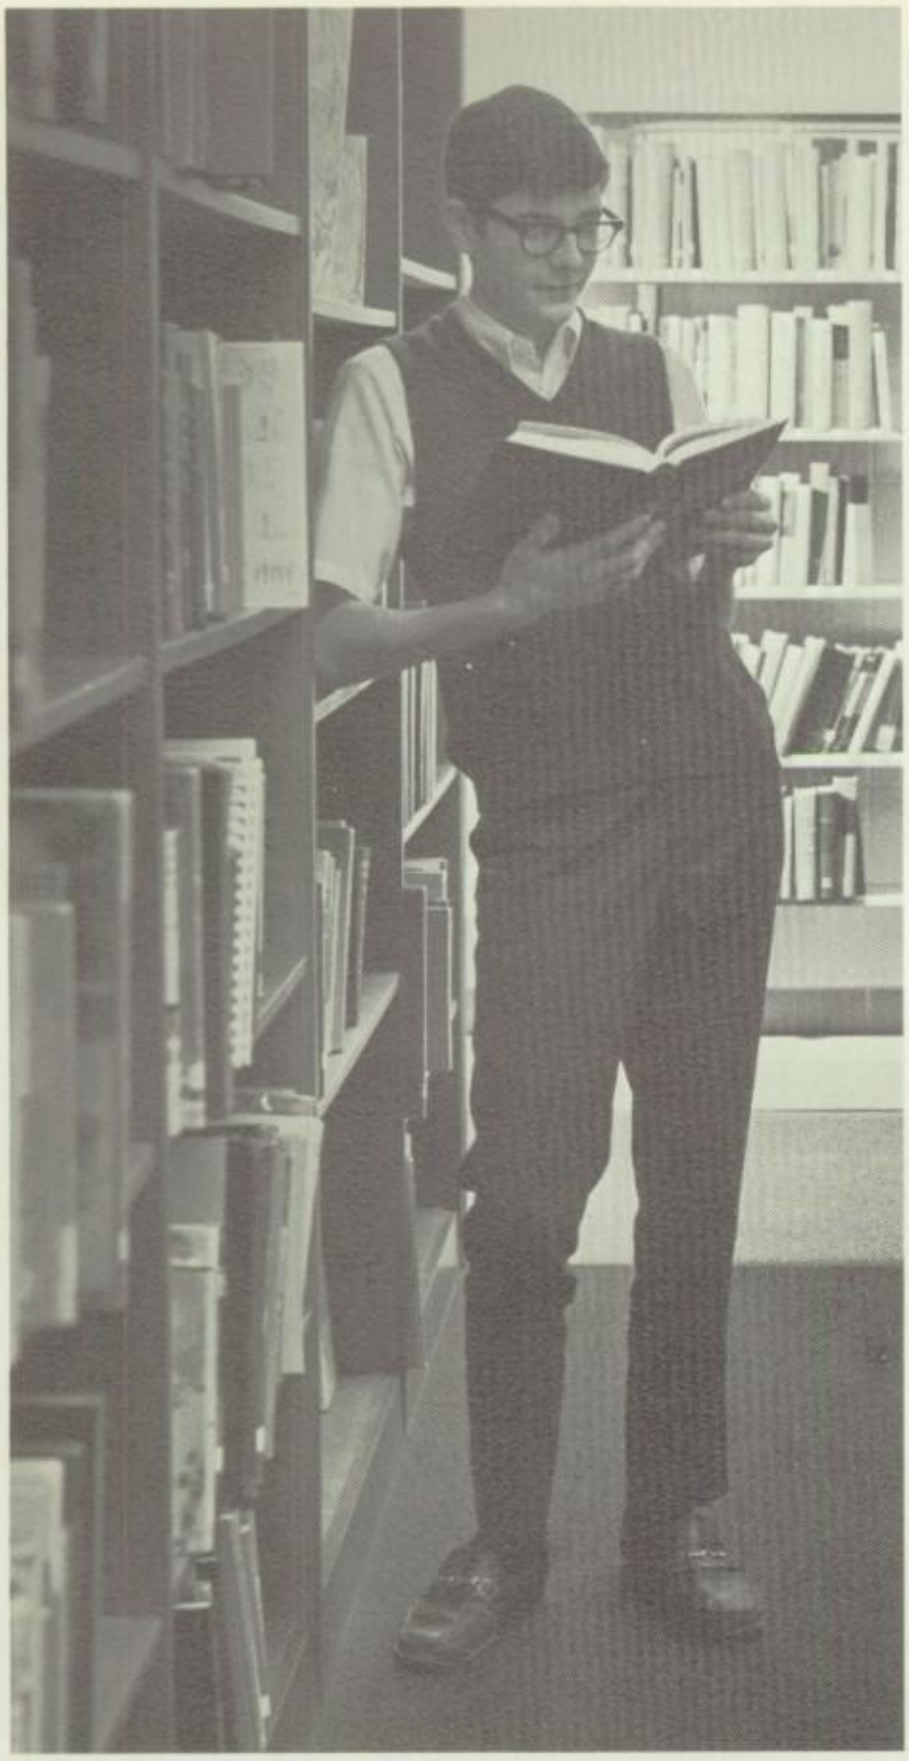
Academics

ACADEMICS \ak a dem' iks\ n. pl.
the sum total of all college-prep, business and vocational courses offered at Morton. To the individual student it may mean hours of library research for a term paper, after school work on a chemistry project or learning how to operate industrial equipment. Academics consumes most of the high school student's time and energies but in return provides him with knowledge, experience and a life-long challenge to do his best.

Certain electives provide an opportunity for self-expression in a personal interest through individual practice.

Pat,
To the boy that I had the honor of going to my last prom with. I really had a wonderful time. You didn't do anything to ruin it for me. Honest. I'll miss you next year even though I'd really not known you very well. Good luck next year and in everything you do.

Love,
Linda



Use of the library is essential to college bound students.

Vocational courses encourage technical careers.

Experiments, observation, research aid

Science courses at MHS included experimentation and discussion. Involved in lab work, students and teachers became familiar with modern equipment.

Beginning with simple plants and advancing to complex animals, biology students studied life systems. Collecting insects and leaves and memorizing bone skeletons increased the students' learning.

Goggled student chemists spent much time working at lab tables, experimenting with chemicals. Projects included bending glass and generating hydrogen. Besides lab work, discussions and lectures supplemented the students' chemistry knowledge.

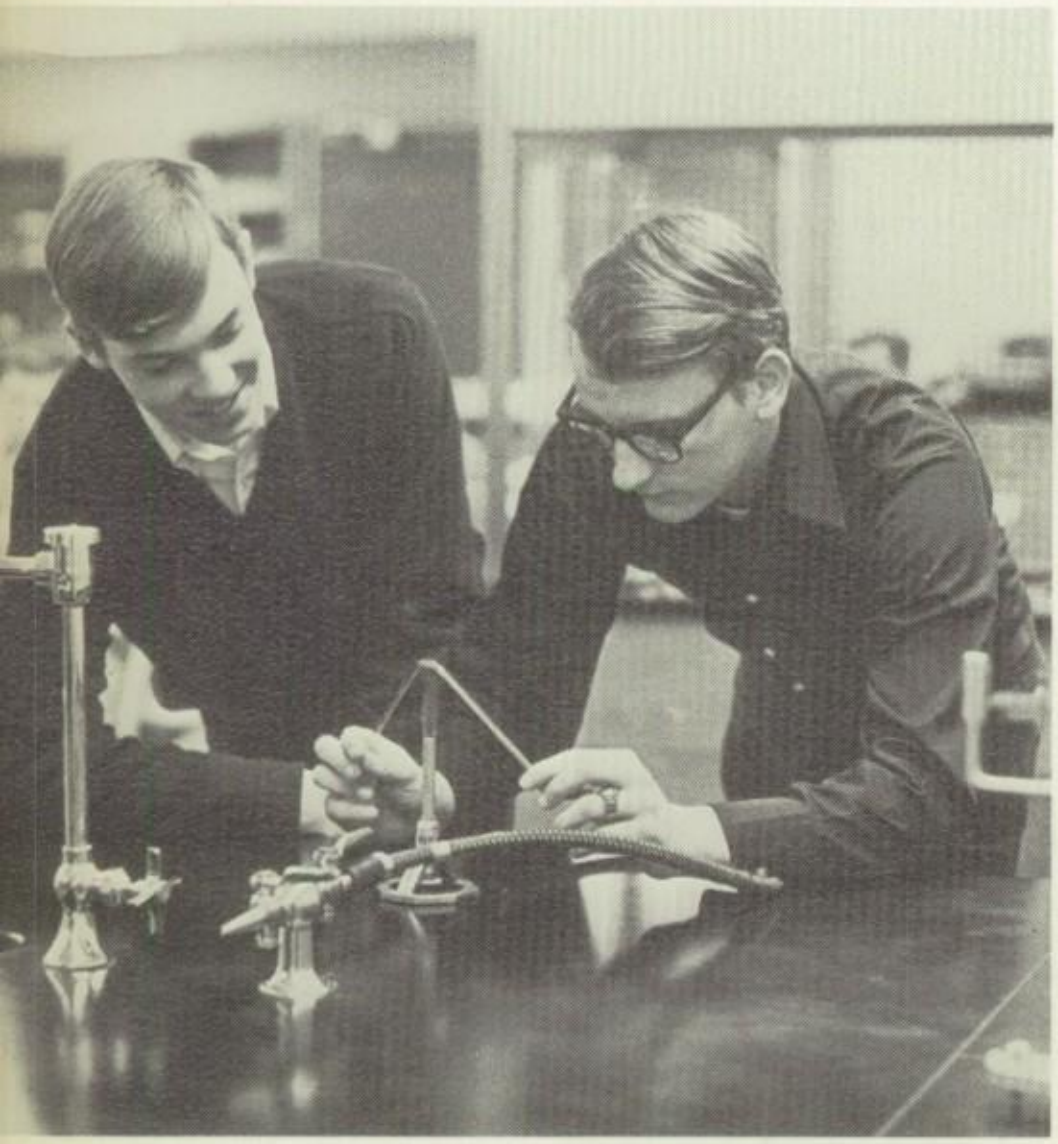
Physics classes dealt with everyday occurrences and practical experiments. By solving problems pertaining to motion and energy, students became aware of the function of physics in man's life.

Physiology and bio-chemistry experiments broadened zoology students' comprehension of animal and human structures. Lab experiments proved that lower class animals and humans are closely related.

By examining various personalities and environments psychology students learned about human behavior. Panels explored theories of mind-reading.

While viewing models of body parts, health and safety classes scrutinized human anatomy. Students prepared bandages to practice first-aid.

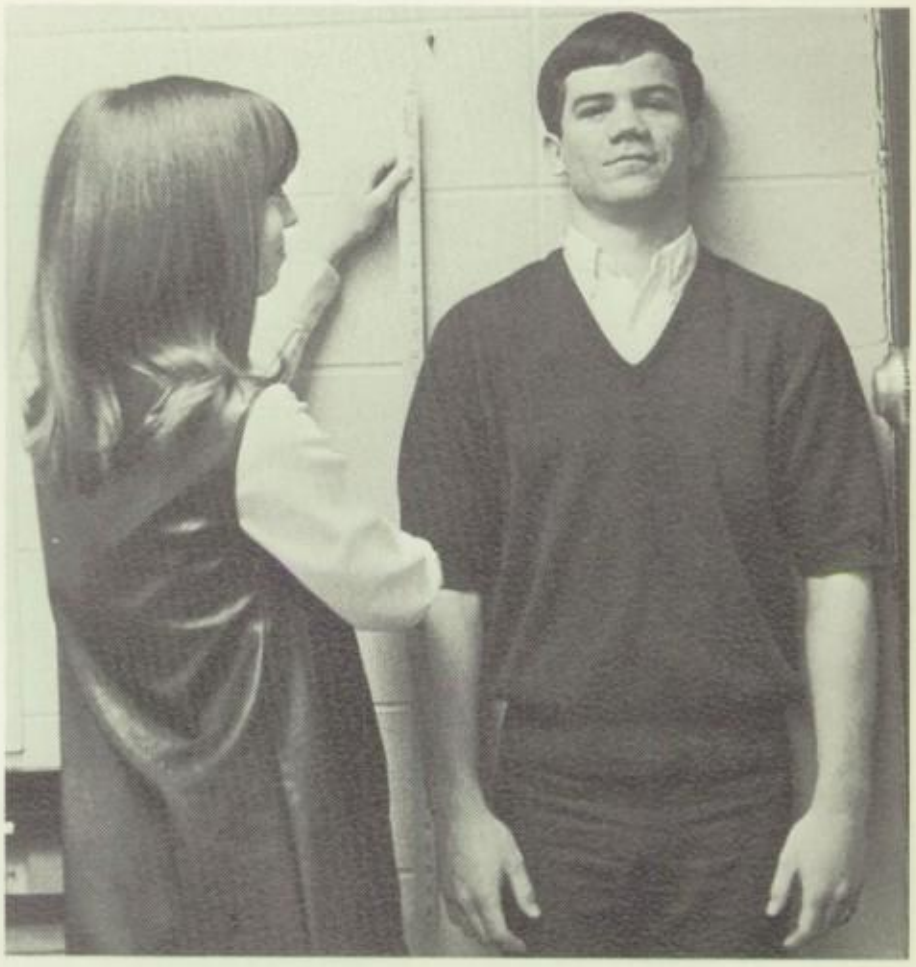
EXAMINATION OF THE INNER EAR fascinates sophomore Alexis Ben during a study of the sense organs. Models of parts of the human body were used by health and safety classes.



WITH STEADY HANDS, senior Jeff Geissler alters the shape of glass by heat as partner Herb Duensing looks on.

science students in exploring unknown

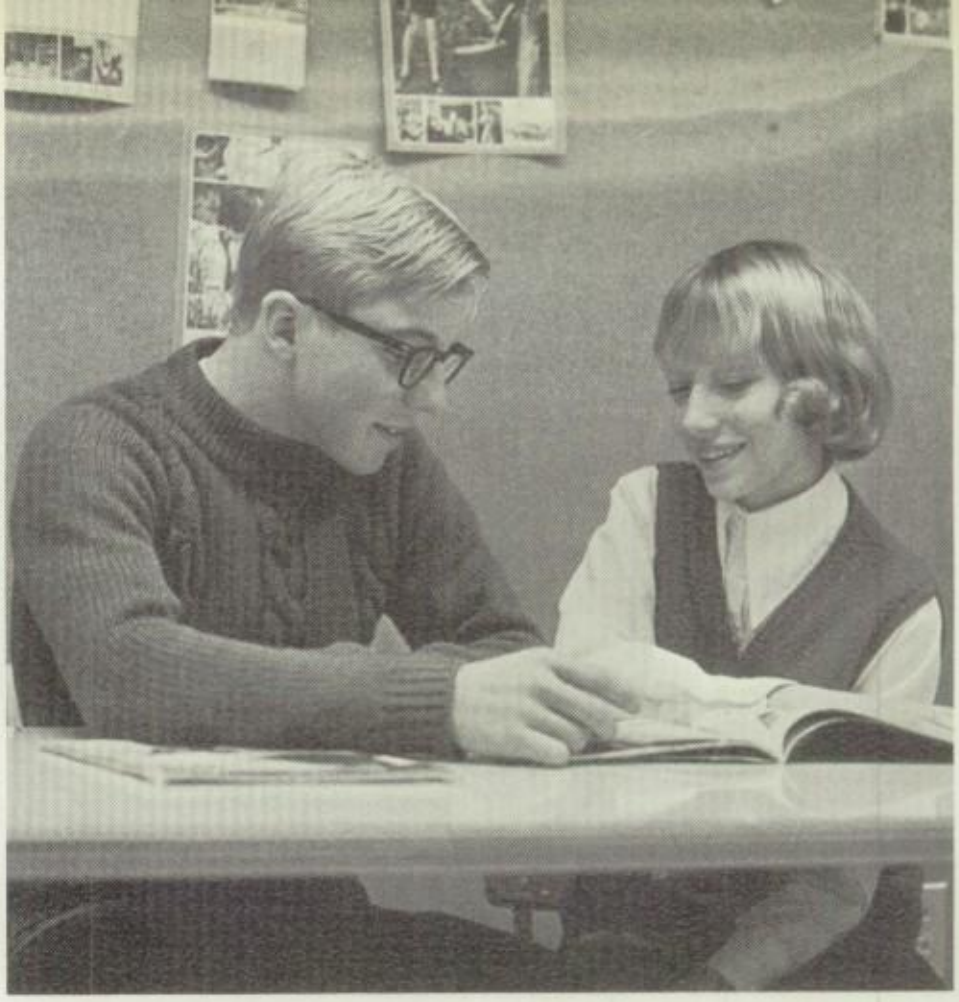
LAB PERIOD finds sophomores Frank King and Jeanette Skawinski experimenting with a conditioned mouse. This test was used to determine the metabolism rate of a lower class animal.



TALL AND STRAIGHT, junior Tom Goldschmidt is measured in meters by senior Sue Brazenas. Chemistry students worked with the metric system for more accurate calculations.

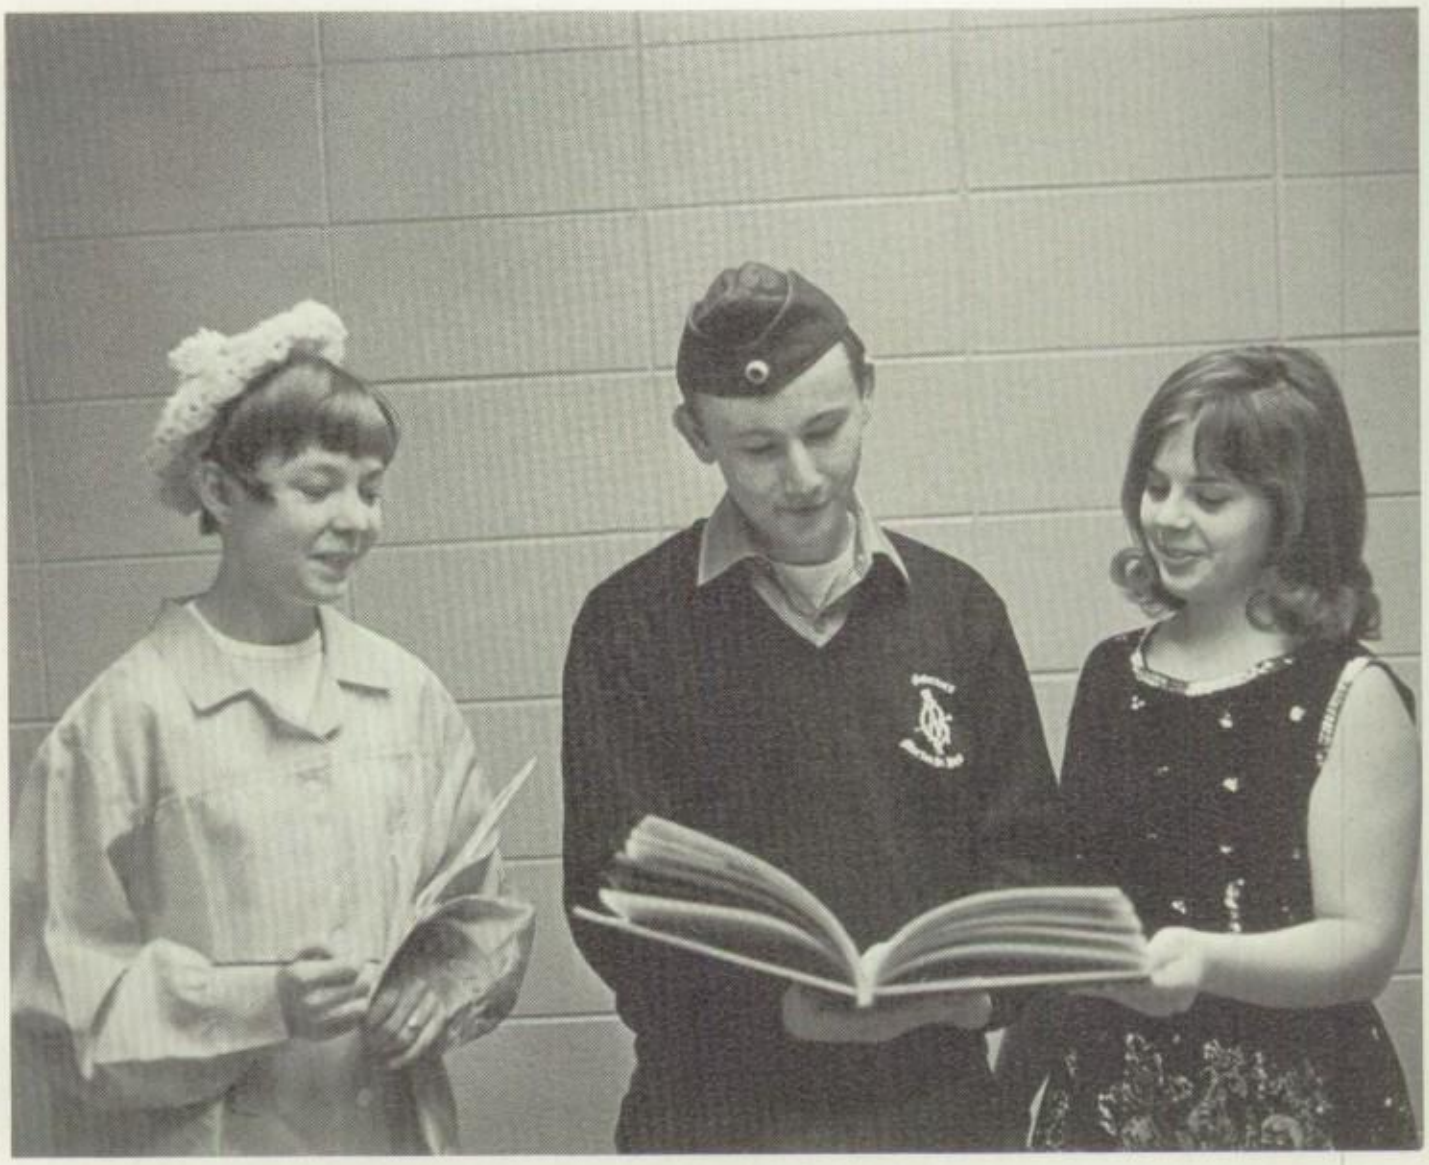
CONCENTRATION is the main object of Kreskin's ESP. Psychology student Ken Kwiatkowski holds a card while Pam Morris attempts to read his mind. Each card is marked with one of the five figures shown in the picture.

ENTHUSIASTIC SALES TALK is given by senior Bob Wells during a Spanish III class. Bob is trying to persuade classmates to buy a box of "zucaretes" or corn flakes.



TEXTBOOK CLOSE AT HAND, Harry Kist and Linda Lelito practice their ability to speak French fluently by conversing. Oral communication enlarged language skills.

Language study unites distant nations



ENTERTAINMENT at a foreign language Christmas party included carols sung by French student Kathy Brewer, German pupil Roy Nicpon and Spanish student Mary O'Brien.

Pupils further power of communication

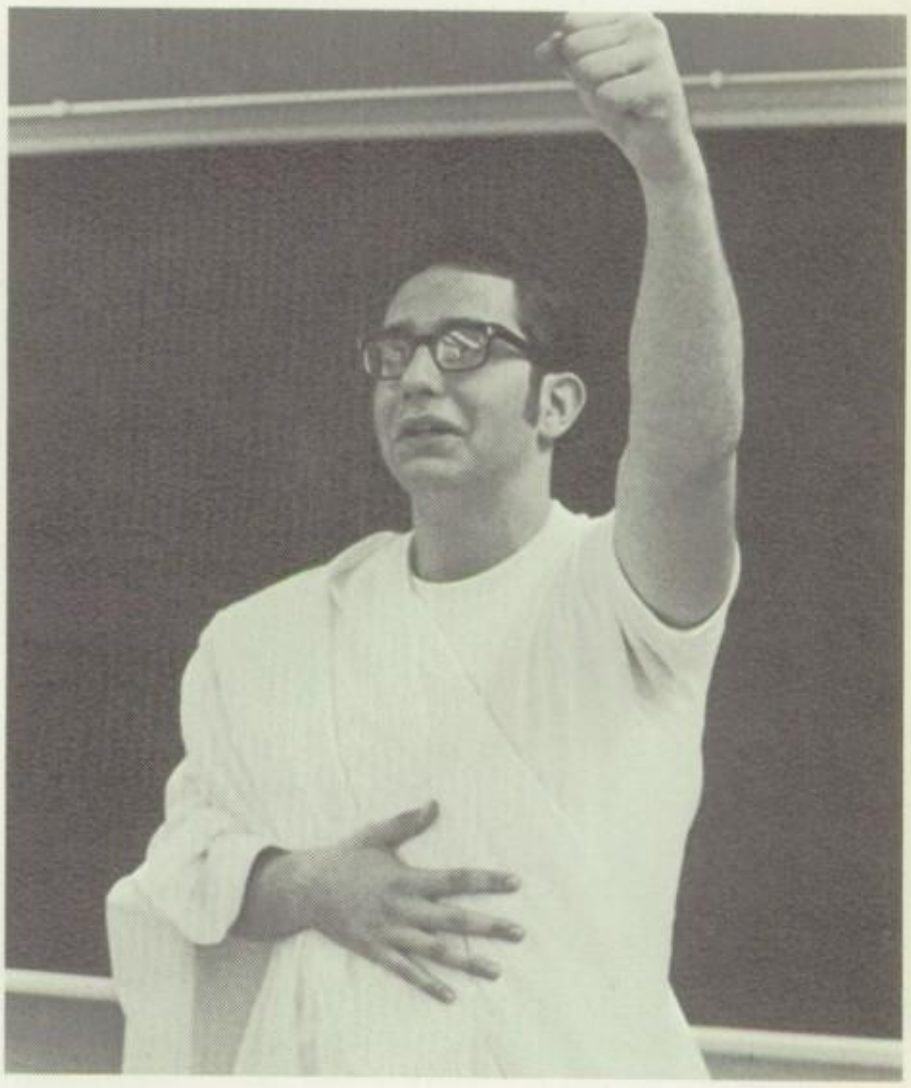
Consisting of the study of a country's history and customs, language courses tried to bring students closer to their foreign neighbors. By breaking the communication barrier, students learned more about the customs of other parts of the world.

First year French students were introduced to the pronunciation of sounds in the language. Advanced French students developed useful skills in grammar and usage through class conversations. By studying Napoleon students became familiar with one of the greatest war heroes of France.

German classes not only delved into the language's grammar and vocabulary but also learned recipes for German dishes, such as potato pancakes. German VII students read and translated the mystery novel DER RICHTER UND SIEN HENKER.

EL SOL, a magazine which features stories, crossword puzzles, comic strips and jokes, furthered the vocabulary of first and second year Spanish students. Third year pupils were required to examine the provinces and land regions of Spain, both geographically and historically. Commercials, skits and news reports enabled students to relate an opinion to their classmates in the language.

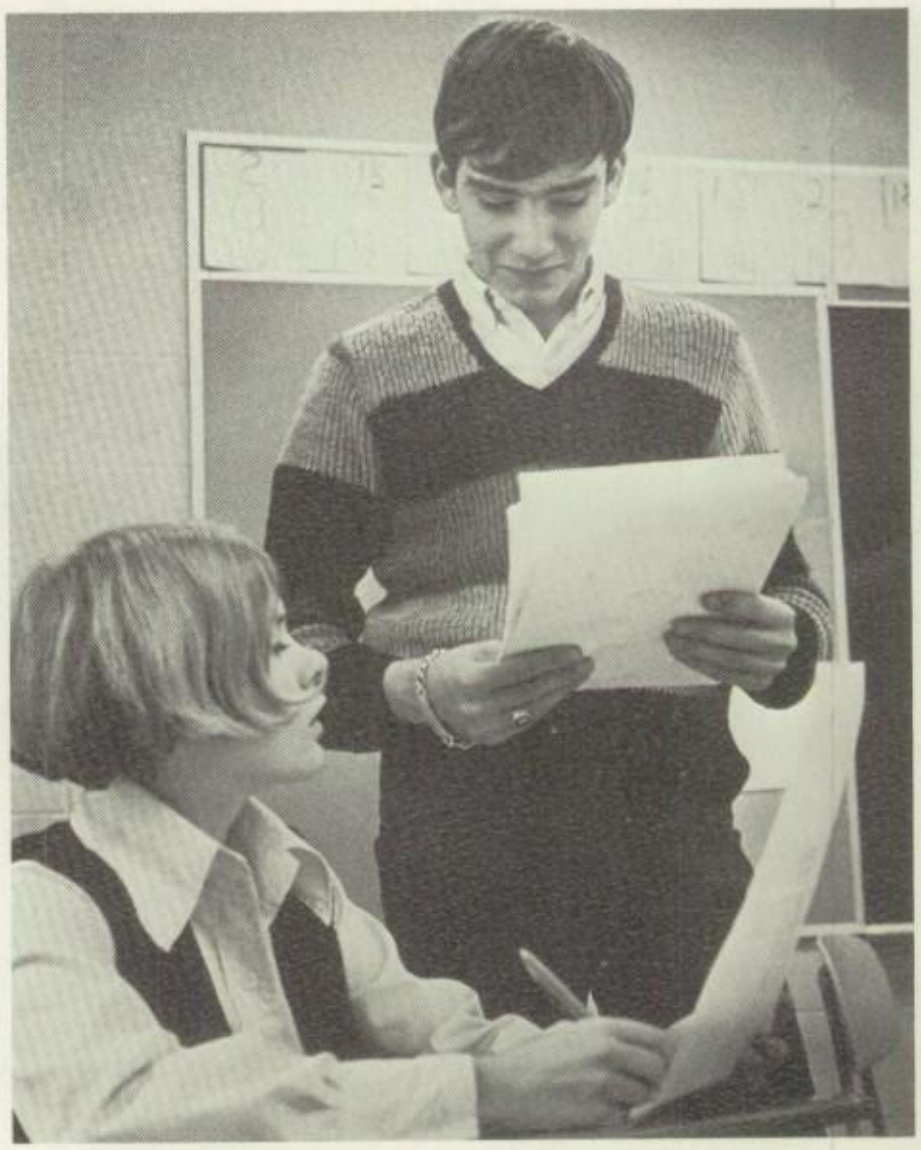
Historical figures, such as Julius Caesar, fascinated Latin classes in their study of Roman civilization. Greek history was also a major topic discussed by students in this language course. Through Latin, pupils learned the origination of many words found in the English language.



ENACTING THE CHARACTER of Julius Caesar, sophomore Chuck Crowe enlightens a Latin II class.

ANXIOUS TASTE-TESTERS, senior Steve Budzik and junior Marie Simms await their potato pancakes, prepared and served by German student Denise Ward.

EXAMPLES OF WRITING on the opaque projector help point out grammatical errors, incorrect punctuation and sentence structure. Composition VIII student Dennis King corrects mistakes on a term paper in front of the class.



COMPARISON AND CORRECTIONS of newspaper galleys are only a small part of what is learned and practiced in journalism class. Pam LaVelle and Keith Poole check each other to note if any mistakes were missed.

SPEECHES in English III included demonstrations and personal experiences. Lynn Fleischer, Kenn Ann Burroughs, Cathy Emond and Pam LaVelle interpret a modern dance step.

Reviews, essays encourage originality

Varied learning methods encouraged originality in writing reviews, themes and essays in English classes at Morton. Students used textbooks and tape recorders to better analyze the language.

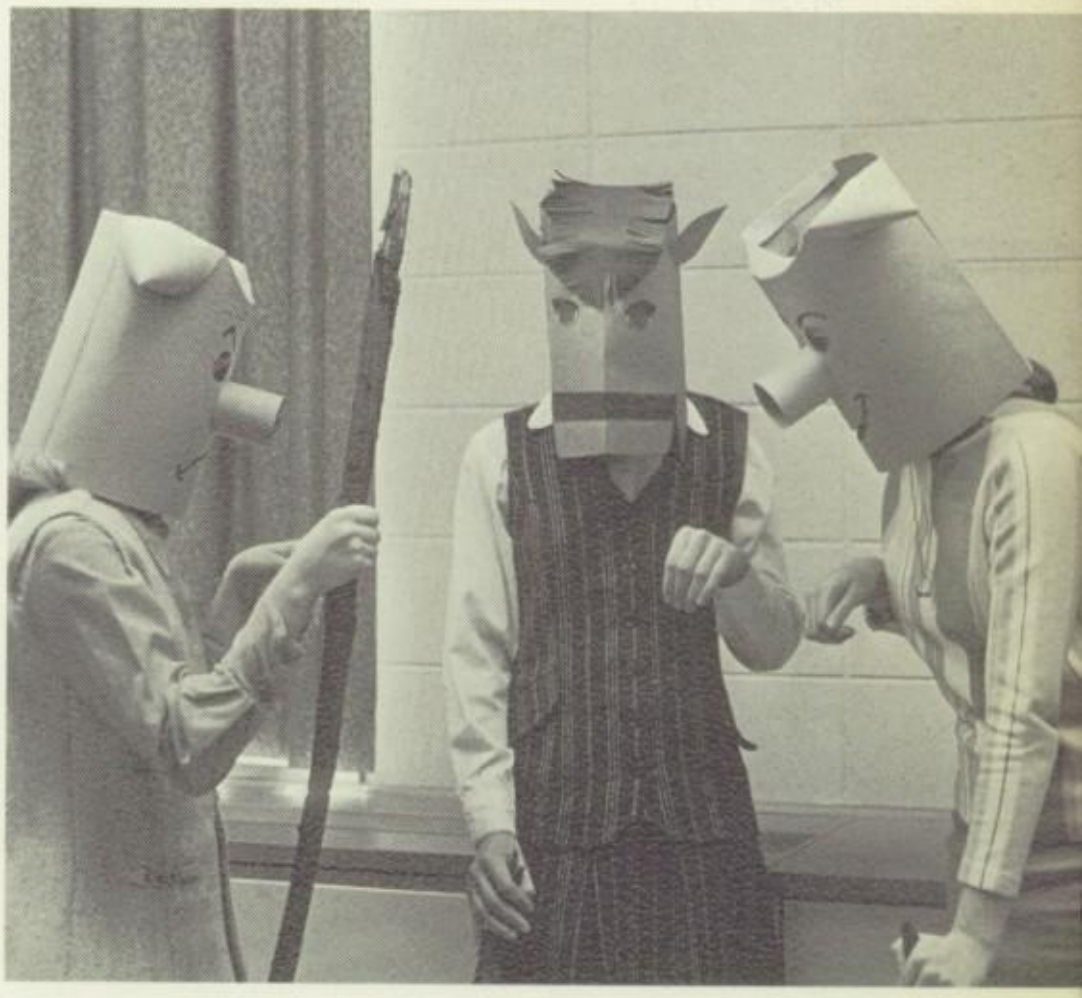
Areas of study during freshman English ranged from grammar and essays to Greek mythology. Time was spent on an in-depth study of Dicken's well-known novel "Great Expectations." Some classes constructed theme projects of the Elizabethan Era.

Emphasis was placed on public speaking and the use of vocabulary words in English III and IV. Examining the works of Dreiser, Steinbeck and F. Scott Fitzgerald were also in sophomore study.

Literature by the American authors Mark Twain, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry Thoreau were studied in English V and VI. Senior students became acquainted with English Literature and also reviewed grammar. Junior and senior classes took time for writing essays and compositions.

World Literature presented a study of foreign humanities. Senior pupils analyzed the Greek play "Antigone" during the semester.

Speech and debate classes offered experience in oral speaking. Journalism prepared students for either the yearbook or newspaper staffs.



PORTRAYAL OF ANIMALS from an excerpt of LORD OF THE FLIES is depicted by juniors Candi Schultz, Elaine Clark and Laura Adams in an English V class.

Homemakers prepare for family roles

To teach the skills of domestic and industrial trades, more practical art electives were offered. Students learned to create with their hands.

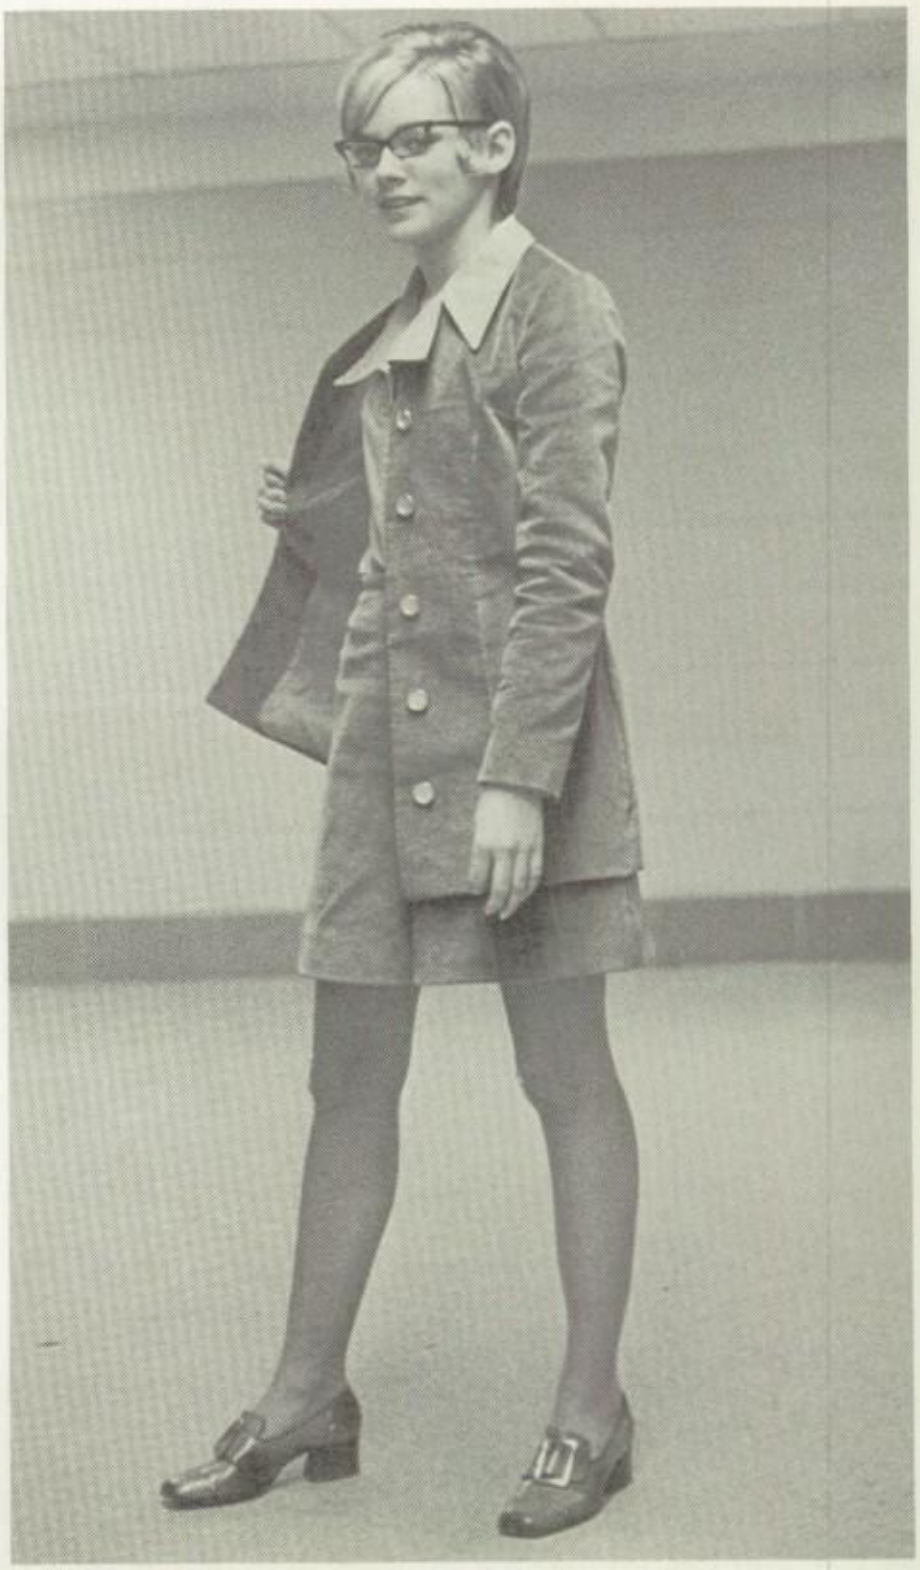
Newly introduced this year, power mechanics class supplied students with knowledge concerning the application of power. Besides learning the basic functions of electrical energy, pupils also delved into a study of the field of computers.

Metals class described the materials and operations involved in metalworking occupations. In mechanical drawing, pupils drew blueprints and three-dimensional figures. Woodshop students learned the art of woodworking by constructing projects which they were allowed to choose.

After mastering essential sewing skills, girls worked with all types of material in clothing classes. Family living instructed students in methods of handling household problems.

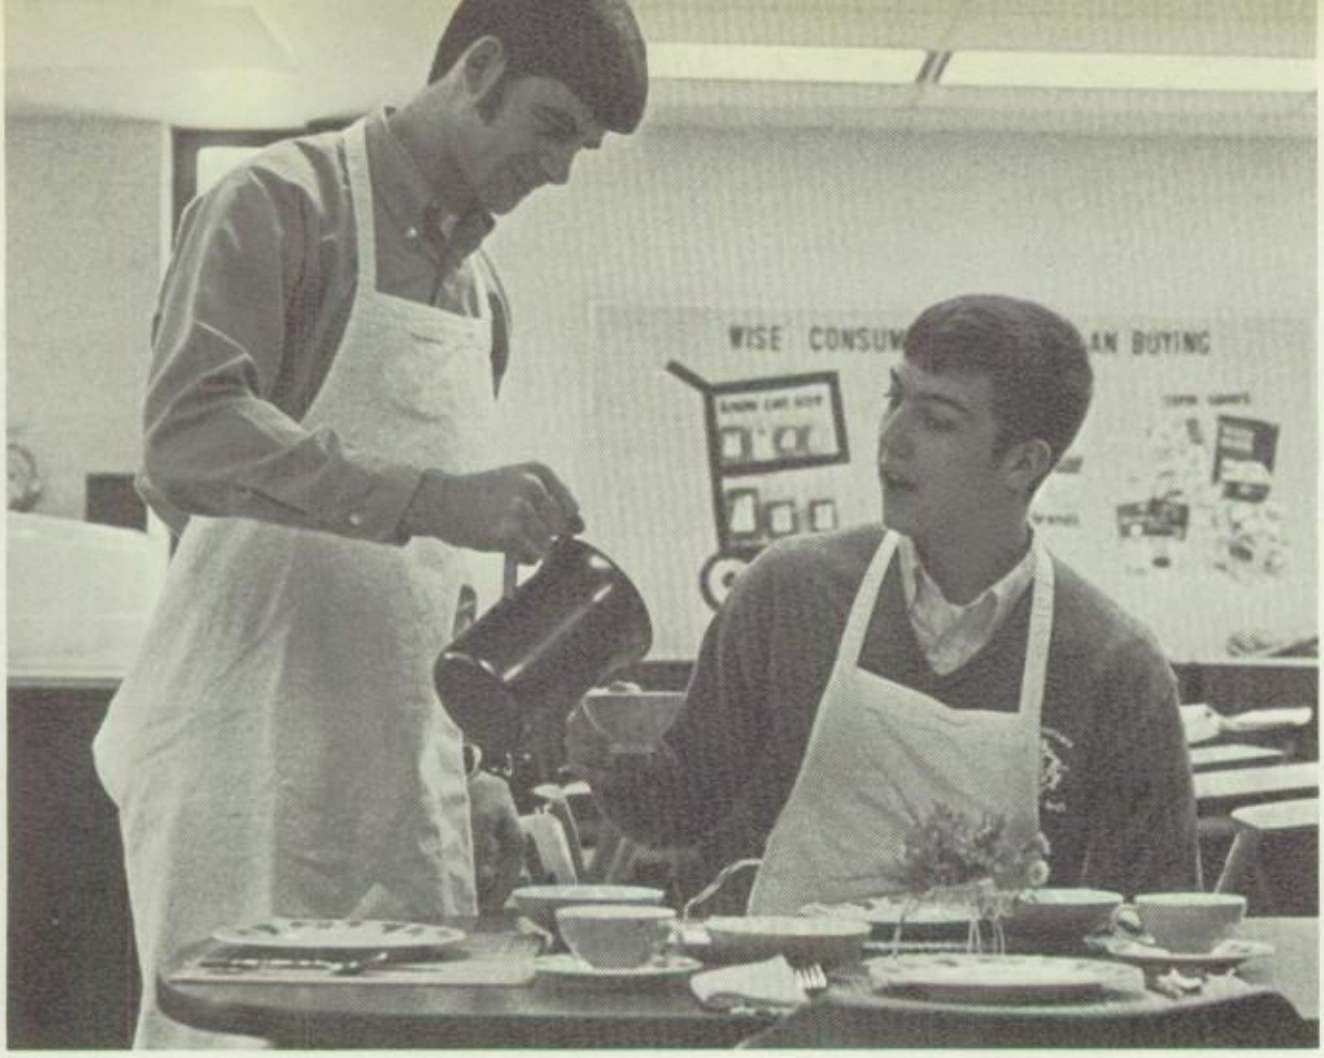
Boys taking home economics practiced good manners and received cooking lessons. Girls prepared balanced meals and learned about nutrients.

Expressing one's self was most important in art classes. After studying color, students created poster designs, lettering layouts and sculptures.



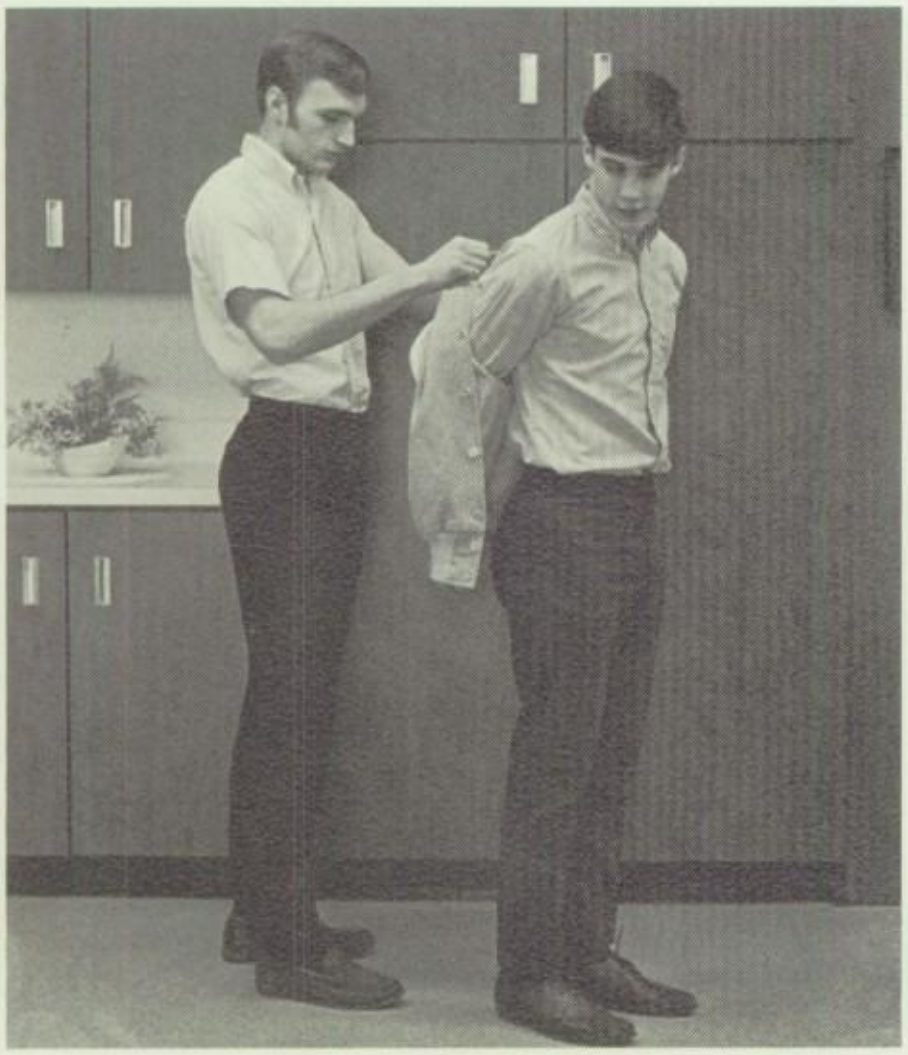
PROUDLY DISPLAYING HER OUTFIT, junior Vickie Hudacin models the jacket and culottes she made in Clothing IV. Girls are taught the use of the sewing machine and other basic techniques in advance to making their own clothes.

TO CHECK HER WORK, Pat Silaghi peels off the tape from a mold covering. Students in the advanced art class poured the plaster into rubber forms, making it easy to remove.

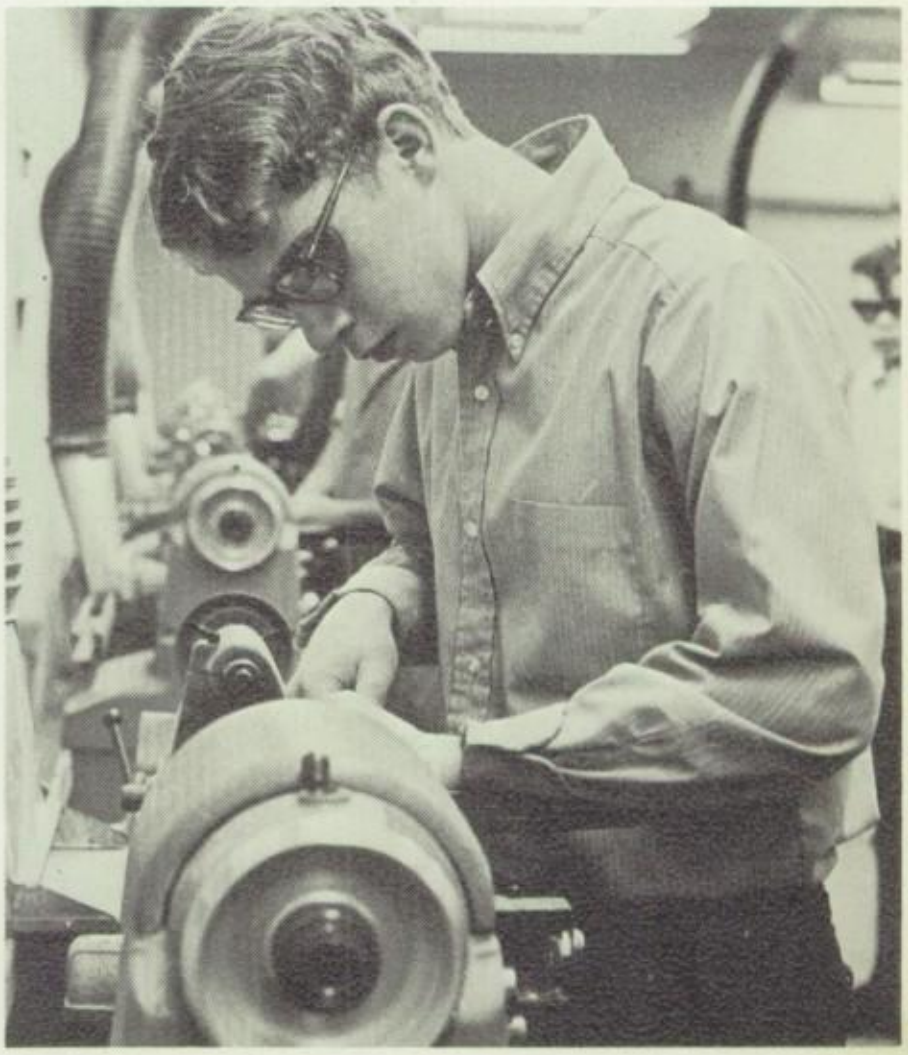


PITCHER IN HAND, Wayne Bocken serves coffee to Randy Hlad in boys' home economics after setting the dinner table.

Technical arts stress industrial methods

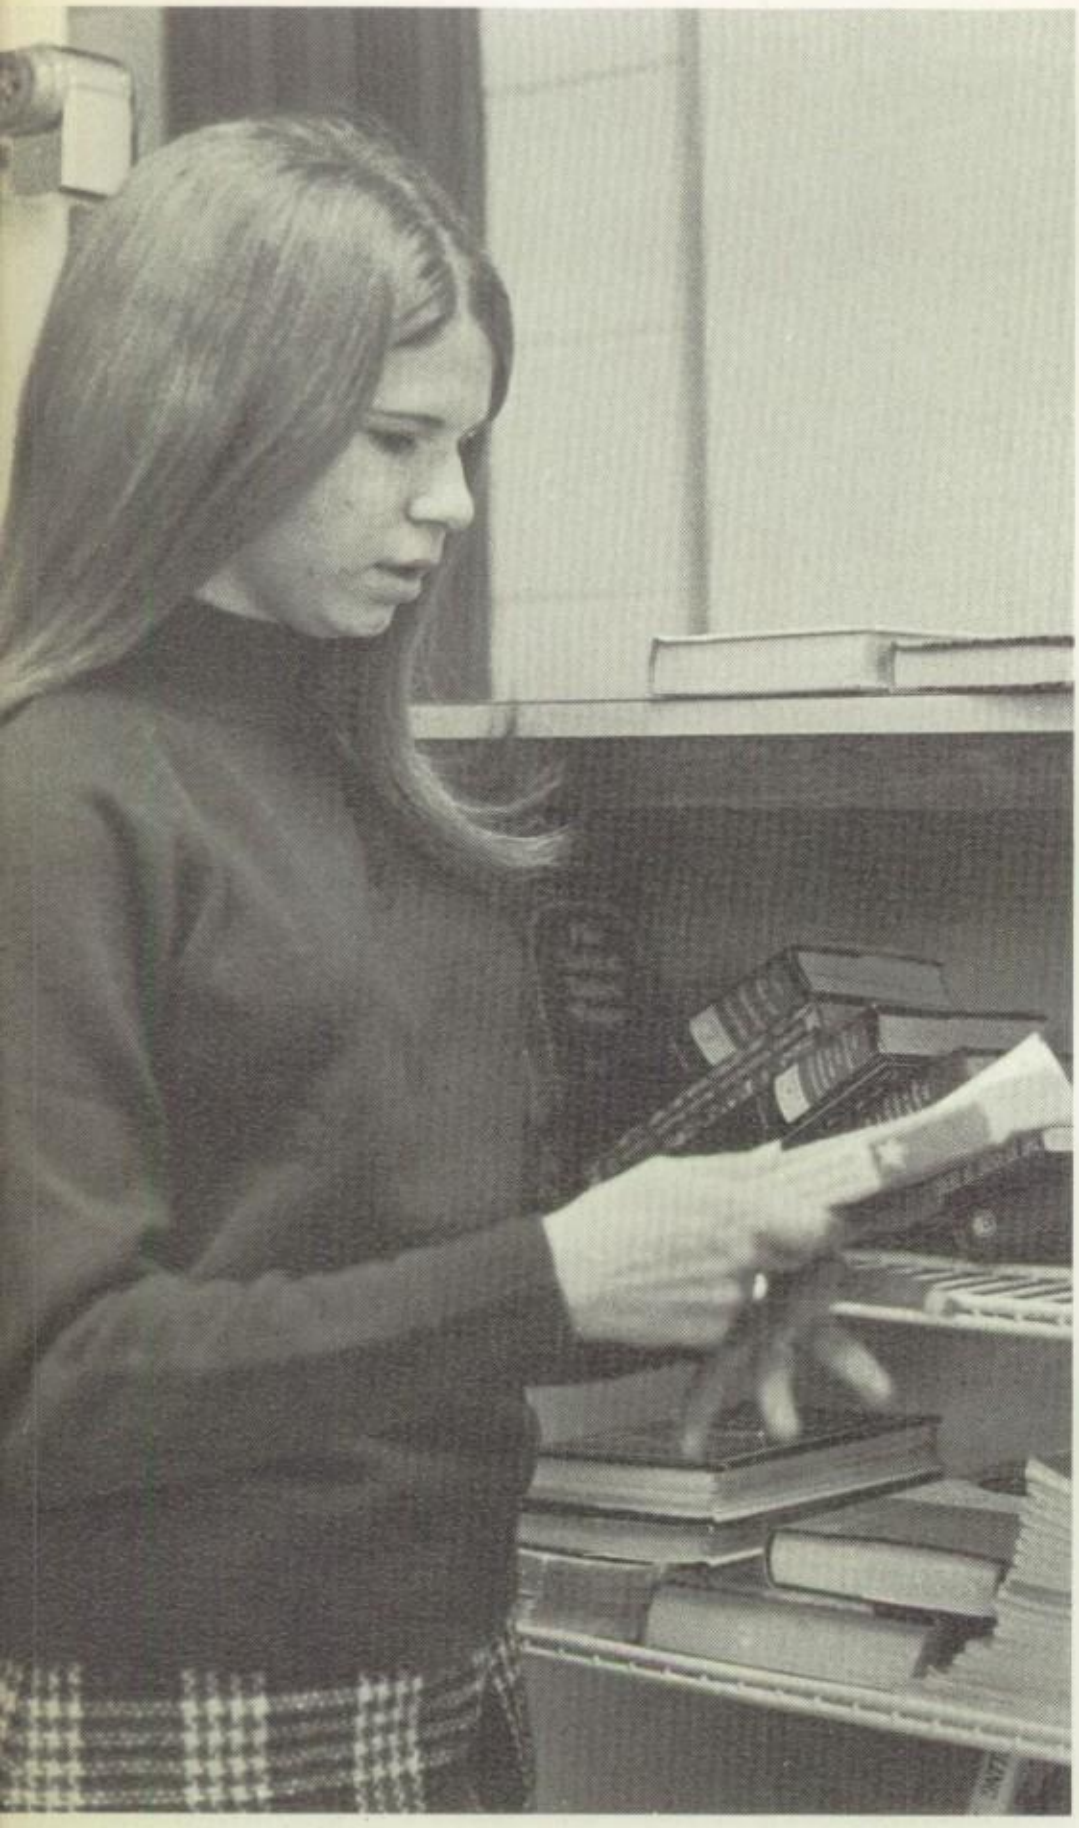


PROPER ETIQUETTE is demonstrated by senior Tom Childress, who helps Bob Ryckman with his coat during a boys' home economics class. In order to learn the social graces the boys were often required to substitute for girls.



GOGGLED WOODSHOP STUDENT Larry Dmitruck observes safety rules while turning a bowl on a wood lathe. The boys had the choice of making several different projects in shop, such as ashtrays, podiums and lamps.

History topics include Viet Nam, taxes



USE OF A PRIVATE COLLECTION of books and articles enables U.S. History II student Geri Fromm to find further information about the Civil War. Independent research plays an important part in the study of the United States.

Viet Nam moratoriums and the lottery system absorbed a significant part of the discussion time in all history classes. The United States astronauts' landing on the moon stimulated students' thoughts about the expansion of man's world.

Studies in U.S. History III and IV covered the development of African culture and the Arab-Israeli crisis. The teachers held lectures and seminars and allowed members of the class to present oral reports stressing a solution to the problem.

U.S. History I and II students examined achievements of the U.S. Presidents. The classes learned the progress of the U.S. from the Revolutionary War to its present foreign involvement.

Revealing the importance of the earth's natural features, geography informed students about the customs and living habits of other peoples.

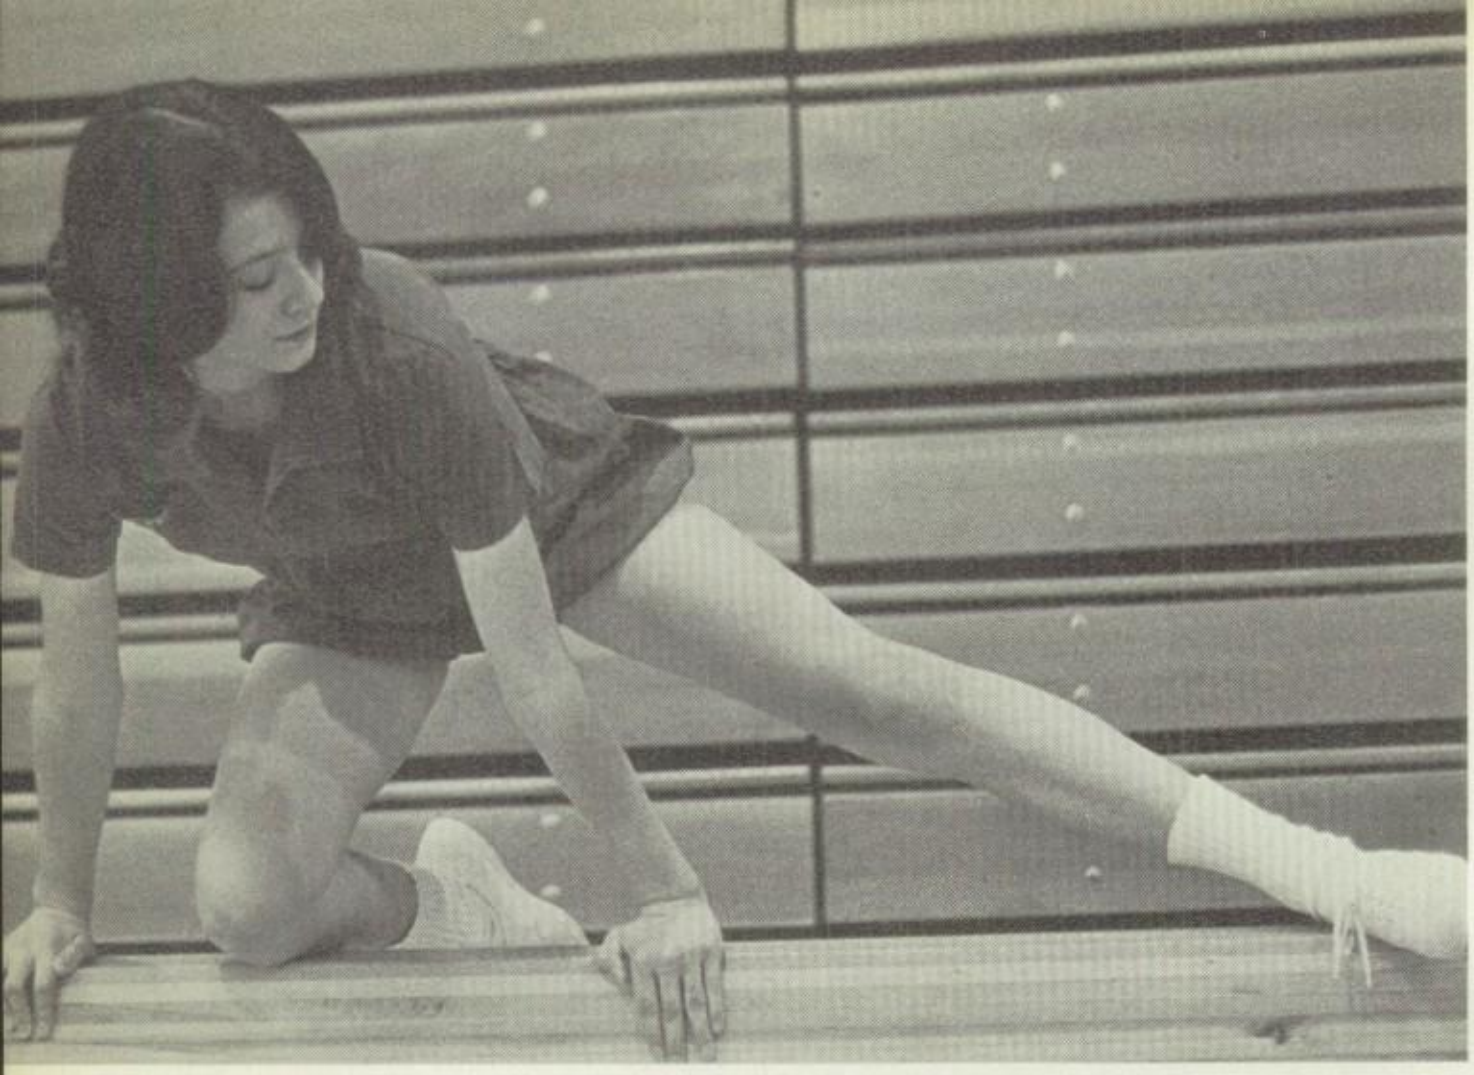
Economics classes analyzed U.S. economic insecurity and government welfare. Pupils competed in an imaginary stock exchange with a set sum of money to see how investments made profits or losses.

Students learned about the Hammond city and federal political systems in government. By discovering the role of the citizen in democracy, pupils found a personal place in American politics.

DEMONSTRATING A SEGMENT of a court session, judge Bob Tokoly looks on as witness Kim Lambert is sworn in by bailiff Joe Dempsey.

CURRIER AND IVES prints interest junior Frank Fagyas in U.S. History II. In addition to the text, illustrations offered visual assistance to students.

CAUGHT IN AN INTENSE DEBATE, seniors Rick Bosch, Debbie Petho and Dennis King listen to Bruce DeLau's opinions on America's role in foreign affairs. U.S. History III class also discussed the war on poverty, pollution and Viet Nam.



AFTER COMPLETING A MOUNT, gym student Kim Messinger begins her routine on the balance beam for a final semester grade.

Physical education classes build fitness

Swimming, volleyball, tennis and gymnastics comprised a few divisions in the course of physical education. Other activities included golf, folk dancing, and shuffleboard, each given special attention. Freshmen participated in the gym classes while upperclassmen worked as assistants.

Both boys and girls took part in the swimming program. Students learned proper breathing techniques and applied them to the crawl, sidestroke, breaststroke and backstroke. They also practiced the basic fundamentals of life-saving.

In the game of volleyball, instructors coached girls on different serves and correct playing positions. Students also practiced passing, dribbling and shooting methods in basketball.

Gymnastics, a vital part of the physical education course, enabled pupils to work out on the trampoline, parallel bars and ropes. Girls also spent time learning routines on the balance beam and practicing acrobatic forms and tumbling.

During the six weeks of dancing instruction, girls became acquainted with folk dances of foreign countries as well as varied versions of the American square dance. Teachers graded students on their ability to remember dance steps.

DETERMINED TO WIN, freshman Carol Anguiano aims for the highest points on the shuffleboard while opponent Debbie Jankowski watches and waits for her turn.

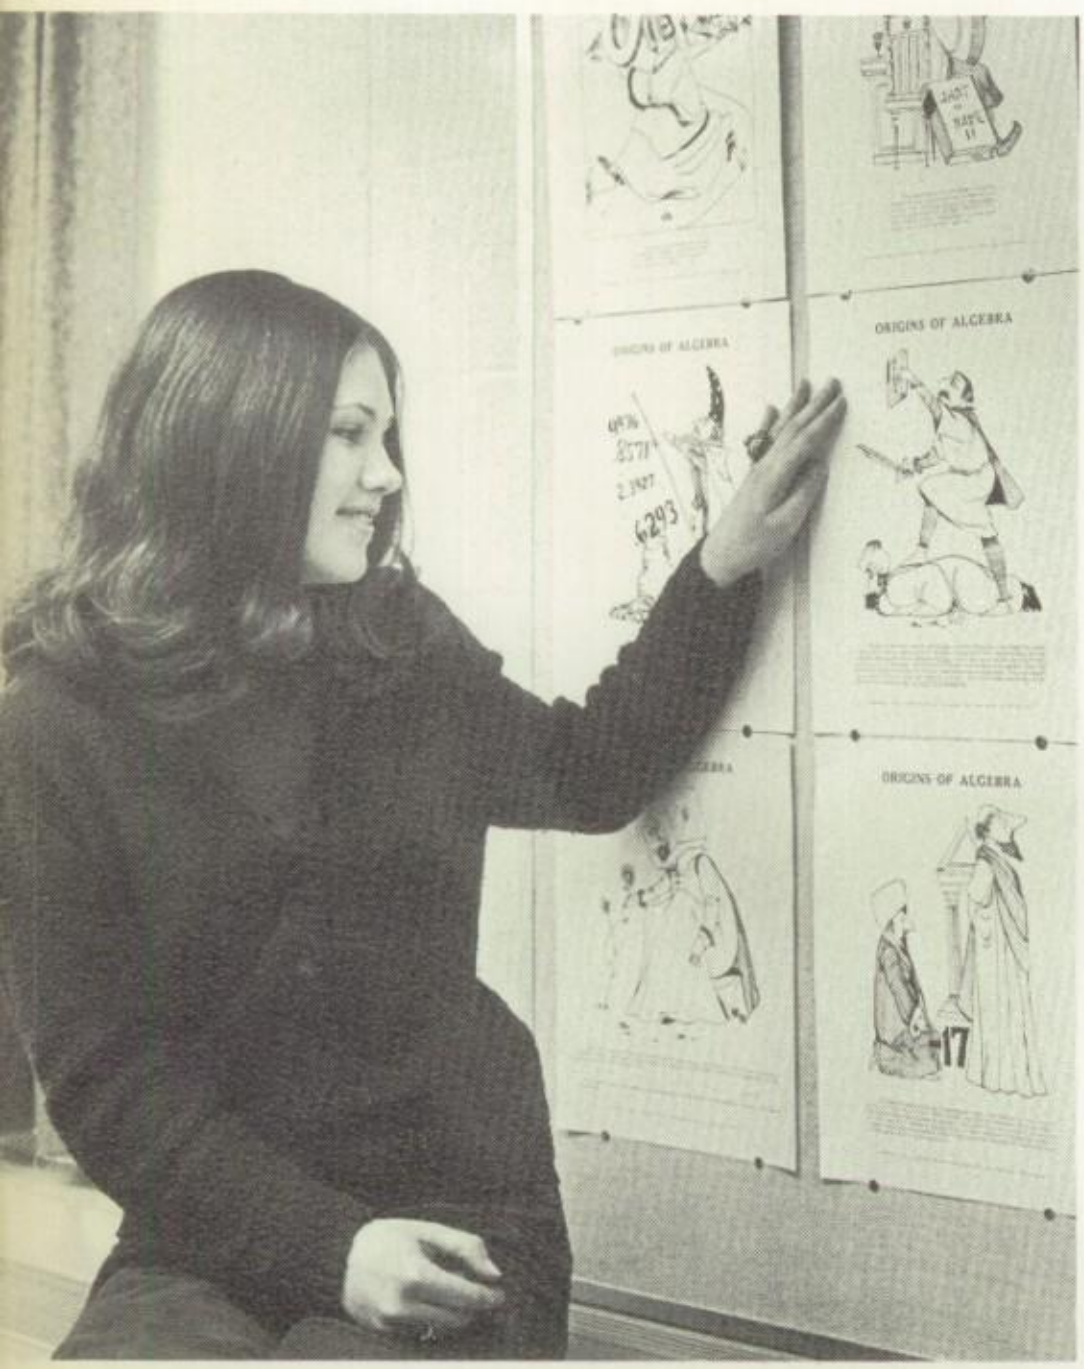
Universities motivate possible pupils to



AMUSED BY THE ORIGIN OF "ALGEBRA," freshman Nancy Olson reads a humorous incident of how algebra received its name. Information pertaining to the field of mathematics was frequently posted on bulletin boards.

By developing the abilities to reason logically and solve problems accurately, students found it easier to prepare for college math classes. Throughout the year, the mathematics department provided information supplementary to all courses.

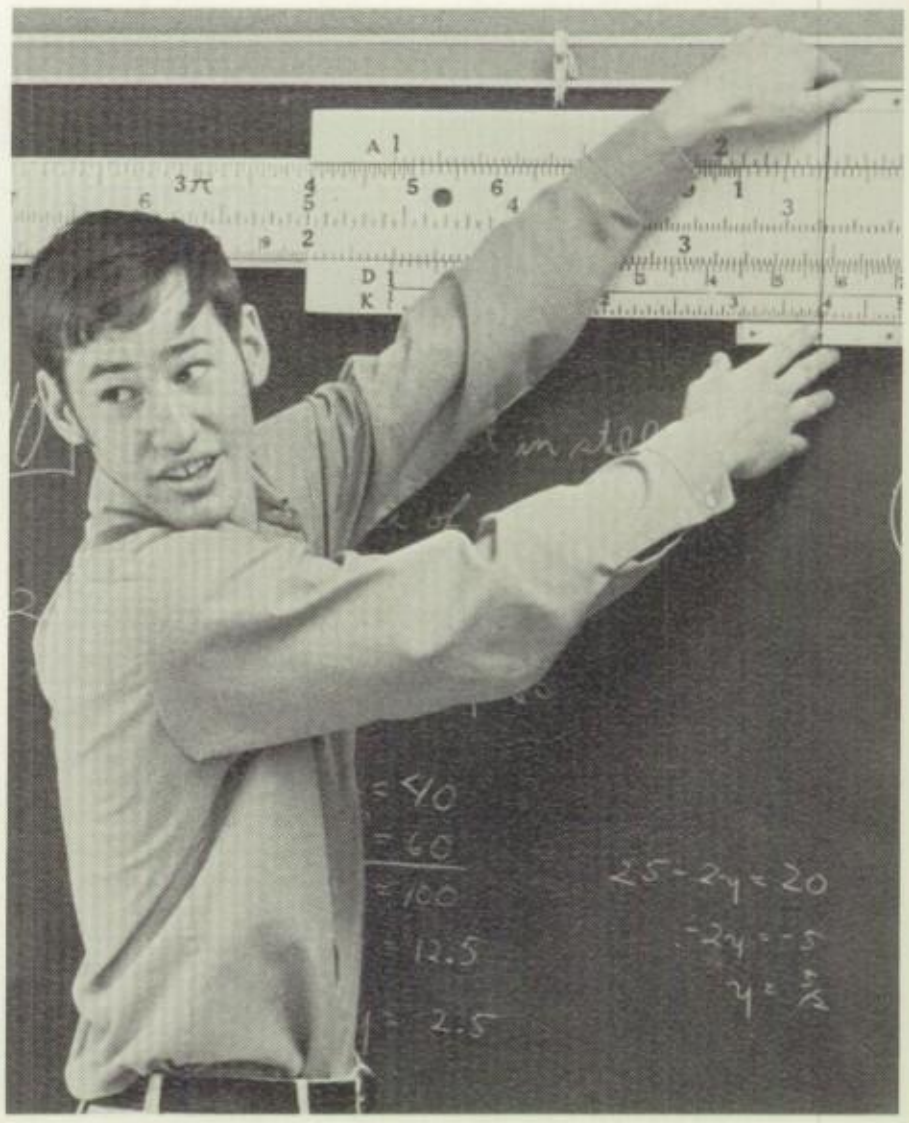
For those who wanted to grasp the main concepts of math without delving into a special area, a two-year basic course was offered. Such students found interest rates, solved thought problems, studied percentages and reviewed arithmetic.

Trying to understand the facets of modern math, first year algebra students struggled with equations and unknowns. The Cartesian coordinate plane served as the basis for plotting points to find solution sets of linear equations.

With protractor and compass in hand, geometry pupils bisected angles and constructed geometric figures. They also discussed Euclidean theories and wrote proofs for given statements.

Advanced algebra students used their previously acquired knowledge to solve quadratic equations and graph functions. They also explored logarithms, irrational numbers and permutations.

In analysis classes seniors became acquainted with vectors, circular functions, series and sequences and complex numbers. Logic was especially stressed in this advanced math course.



MULTIPLICATION ON THE SLIDE RULE is explained to an Algebra IV class by Rich Davis. Use of this device enabled math students to solve their problems much faster.

BY TRIAL AND ERROR Rich Thomas tries to arrange the Instant Insanity blocks so that each color appears on a side.

Career opportunities in the business world increase constantly while the qualifications become more complex. Morton's business department offered basic and advanced classes in order to help students prepare for these challenges.

Essential to almost every position of employment is the ability to type. Teaching students to strike the keys correctly, build up speed and transcribe letters were the main goals of typing classes.

Shorthand included dictation tests that pupils must successfully complete to pass the course. By imitating a regular office situation, stenography classes taught the circumstances of a real job. Assignments included taking transcriptions and dictations at different speeds in class.

In business law students analyzed situations dealing with legal procedures and budgeting. Guest speakers discussed loans and credit unions.

To improve business skills bookkeeping students figured new income and net worth of a business. Different companies' figures on debt, credit and financial liability were examined and then balanced to the respective budgets.

Clerical practice covered learning how to operate adding, duplicating and stencilling machines. All are utilized in regular businesses.

Morton High Student Association assisted in handling pupil activities and student-administration policies. Under the supervision of cabinet heads, the school government sponsored the printing of a Morton emblem on the gymnasium floor and promoted a school sweater sale for spirit purposes.

To enlarge the Association treasury, the organization sponsored the annual homecoming dance and Inaugural Ball. Some of the profits gained were used to provide seasonal school decorations.

Elected class representatives formed the senate, and each homeroom elected a representative to voice opinions at Association meetings. The student congress assisted in drafting the new dress code and supplied volunteers for activity committees.

In order to provide better leadership, the three officers learned the executive responsibilities by attending a summer workshop at Indiana University. The Association court disciplined students who failed to respect school policies.

academic courses create organizations

Scholastic ability, leadership and service qualities were the main qualifications for membership in the National Honor Society and the National Forensic League. Considered prestige groups, the NHS and NFL were organized to give recognition to outstanding Morton students.

To increase its funds the Honor Society sponsored a lunch hour folk concert. Featuring the Wayfarers, two sessions were held in the auditorium. The organization accepts juniors in the top five percent of their class and seniors ranking in the top ten percent who are in good school standing.

Encouraging effective speaking, the NFL trains its members for leadership and to become more successful, influential citizens. Top students may qualify for participation in a nation-wide student congress, open only to NFL members. A diploma was presented to the debaters in recognition of their degrees of merit, honor and distinction.

Social studies and language courses were responsible for the formation of the History and the Foreign Language clubs. The Foreign Language Club worked to create interest in European dialects and the countries in which they are spoken. Offering membership to the entire student body, the History Club strove to teach its participants articulation in discussing historical data.

Dramatic organizations produce plays

Chiefly responsible for Morton's stage productions, Theatre Guild began the year by presenting two children's plays. Following the children productions, a comedy ARSENIC AND OLD LACE and the drama SPOON RIVER were staged. The crew then prepared for the spring musical CAMELOT.

Vital to the theatre department, stage crew offerred opportunities to work on stage settings, design and lighting. The crew constructed all backgrounds for concerts, plays and assemblies.

Thespians, an honorary dramatic organization, required students to obtain a certain number of points before being initiated. Students were able to gain these points by working on the different phases involved in a dramatic production. This year Morton's Thespian Troupe 897 hosted the Indiana Thespian Convention. At this conference each troupe from northern Indiana presented a 1-act play.

Costume and make-up committees were formed by students who possessed talents in these areas. Cast members were thus better able to enact a role. Theatre Guild visited the American Ballet Theatre and Kabuki, a Japanese playhouse.

New folk group enlarges department

Offering students opportunities to participate in all styles of music, the Morton choral department recently expanded to include the Wayfarers, a group associated primarily with folk music. Providing its own instrumental accompaniment, the fifteen male and female members added variety to their repertoire by performing popular, country and western and humorous ballad selections.

Judged on sight reading abilities and general musical knowledge, students auditioned for membership in the Concert Choir. Accompanied by the Concert Band, the choir entertained the student body at the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies.

Selected Concert Choir and Girls Choir members formed the Carillons, a group of twelve girls. The ensemble participated in the state vocal contest and received a first place honor.

Entertaining for community clubs and concerts, the Governaires displayed their musical abilities by singing at the Flaming Pit during the Christmas season. Joined by the Wayfarers, the sixteen member ensemble sang on radio station WJOB, performing from the Howard Johnson Rainbow Room.

Pop music dominated the vocal selections of the Chantaires. The nine member group made and wore new semi-formal dresses. Mixed choir, newly added to the department, also performed at concerts.

Under the supervision of a new director, the instrumental department entertained during football and basketball seasons. Christmas and spring concerts were staged by the concert band. The band participated in the annual Thanksgiving assembly.

After school rehearsals enabled the dance band to prepare for performances at school events. The musical combo performed contemporary arrangements at the Morton athletic "Boosters" banquet. Blue velvet semi-formal dresses and dark dress suits were worn by members of the group.

Band members volunteered to assist the cheerleaders by forming a pep band for basketball games. The group, consisting of approximately fifteen to twenty members, provided the background music for half-time and pom pon and twirling routines.

Selling candy gave the instrumental department funds needed to buy uniform accessories. New sheet music was also purchased. The "Marching Governors" participated in several holiday parades, winning a place of distinction in each.

in journalism field, All-American Award

Hard work and creativeness proved to be the formula for an award-winning yearbook and newspaper. Both publications were awarded All-American ratings by the National Scholastic Press Association. Assemblies were sponsored by both publications to boost MORTONITE magazine and TOP HAT sales.

Journalism workshops at Indiana University prepared the TOP HAT editor for her task of developing the theme and coordinating the yearbook sections. To learn proper yearbook form the assistant editor also attended this Journalism workshop during the summer. She approved and corrected copy, captions and headlines for all of the yearbook sections and wrote the copy for the division pages.

MORTONITE co-editors also attended institutes which helped them become familiar with the layout and make-up of a good, informative newspaper. Working with MORTONITE's co-editors, the assistant editor helped meet the bi-weekly deadlines by writing stories and drawing cartoons.

Page editors organized their pages by arranging articles in an attractive make-up. The editors were also required to meet deadlines for both their paste-ups and proofing and write headlines.

expand sales of yearbook, raise funds

"Age of Aquarius" was the theme of this year's Mortonite assembly. Different skits performed by the staff promoted the sale of magazines to increase newspaper funds. In the TOP HAT assembly members of the staff focused into the future with "Those Were the Days," by acting out a 65-year reunion. They emphasized the point that a yearbook would bring much enjoyment in years to come.

Mama Puntillo's was chosen by Quill and Scroll members as the scene for their annual banquet on April 28 Pins were sold by old and new members to help provide funds for the publication phone. Newly initiated members sold Morton license plates.

TOP HAT sales were a major concern for yearbook representatives in each homeroom. Three extensions in sales deadlines were provided for late buyers. The sophomore class had the largest number of sales.

After journalism new members on the staffs worked by proofing and writing captions, copy and headlines. They were eligible for a position on either publication after some experience. Announcements of new positions were made at the annual Quill and Scroll Banquet. All members of both Morton staffs were invited to attend the spring dinner.

Home Economics members gave aid to a needy area family by donating a basket of food for an Easter dinner. The club, consisting of approximately 20 girls, collected and repaired used clothing to be distributed to poverty-stricken people.

Students interested in the teaching profession joined the Future Teachers of America organization. The group offers graduating seniors scholarships to be applied toward college book fees. To earn a scholarship members must obtain a specific number of points through participating in club activities. The purpose of FTA is to assist students in determining whether or not to become teachers.

To qualify for Art Club membership, Morton students must be enrolled in an art class or have had at least one year of art experience. A jewelry sale was tentatively planned as a fund raising project of the organization. Members worked after school with clay and rock structures. Exceptionally good work created by the students was displayed in the showcases of Mr. Waring's room.

Clubs stir interests in hobbies, careers

Students wishing to develop hobbies or pursue a career became familiar with the Hunting and Fishing, Travel, Photo, Audio Visual and Electronics clubs. Hoping to stimulate interest, these groups opened their membership to all students.

Serving the school, the A.V. Club provided trained pupils to operate movie projectors. Audio Visual members also assisted the Student Association by setting up microphones for assemblies.

Movies and travel slides were shown at Travel Club meetings. The group also planned a Saturday trip to one of the Indiana State Parks.

Members of the Hunting and Fishing Club attended the Sportsman Club in Lansing, Illinois. Group meetings, held twice a month, consisted of viewing films or informal discussions.

Electronics Club offered students the opportunity to work with technical equipment. Members obtained their own devices and received guidance concerning repairing methods from the sponsor.

education, supply profits by bake sales

To promote knowledge concerned with specific areas of science, the Physics, Chemistry, Zoology and Biology clubs offered membership to students. Each club supplied additional information pertaining to careers in varied scientific fields.

"Ultra-violet Sensation" provided the atmosphere for the annual Chemistry Club dance. A psychedelic, pulsating blob attracted students as the main feature of the affair. They were allowed to enter the contraption made of polyethelene sheeting. Profits from the dance supplied the organization with the funds necessary to sponsor a swimming party at the Y.W.C.A. and a Christmas party.

Demonstrations of practical problems were given at monthly meetings of the Physics Club. Guest speakers lectured at the sessions. The organization sponsored a candy sale to provide funds for physics equipment. Members attended the annual spring banquet in honor of the graduating seniors.

Zoology Club members held bake sales to raise money for planned trips. The group participated in a spring outing at Dunes State Park. Under the supervision of a sponsor, Zoology Club members worked on lab problems at after school meetings. Explanations of individual projects were on the agenda for many of the gatherings.

GAA begins interscholastic competition

Affiliated with Morton's athletic program, the GAA, Booster Club and M-Club worked to instill a student body interest in sports activities. The GAA, a member of the Indiana League of High School Girls Athletic Association, began its first season of interscholastic competition.

GAA volleyball, basketball and swimming teams were organized and entered into competition with other area high schools. The basketball team, consisting of ten varsity and ten B-team members, was the most successful of the three sports. Under the guidance of Miss Hicks, advisor, the varsity team captured seven wins out of eight attempts.

Sponsoring bus trips to football and basketball games, the Booster Club encouraged student support. The annual Mr. Basketball and Mr. Football dances supplied the club with money for shakers used during homecoming and sectional activities. Card section was also organized to perform at basketball games. Composed of 90 girls, the section used red and gray cards to form letters of cheers.

M-Club responsibilities consisted of maintenance of the athletic hall of fame, sweeping and roping off the basketball court at half-time, and the formation of a lettermen block at football and basketball games. To qualify for membership in M-Club, boys must earn a varsity letter.

Governettes receive first place honor

Consisting of the twirlers, Flag and Pom Pon corps, the Governettes participated in four Christmas parades. The marching girls were awarded first place for the Hammond parade competition. The Governettes performed their routines before football games and provided entertainment for the half-times of home basketball games.

Sponsoring a basketball dance supplied the Pom Pon girls with money needed to buy new pom pons. The corp, composed of 30 girls, entertained the student body at the annual Christmas assembly by doing a routine to "The March of the Toy Soldiers."

Both varsity and B-team twirlers participated in the state twirling competition held in Columbia City, Indiana. The varsity received a first place trophy, while the B-team secured a second position in their division. Blue eyelash material was purchased by the B-team squad for new uniforms.

Multi-colored flag batons were used by the Morton Flag girls. This Governette division assisted the band by participating in the annual candy sale. Adding to the holiday atmosphere, the Flag girls carried clusters of bells while marching in the Christmas parades. The Flag girls outlined the cheer block during basketball season.

Cheerleaders sell pins to buy uniforms

Coordination, enthusiasm and a "C" or better grade average are the main qualifications required to be a Morton cheerleader. Cheerleaders must be active members of Booster Club and support all school activities. The freshman, b-team, and varsity squads promoted the sale of "Gov Power" pins to provide money for needed equipment.

Attending a summer session at Vincennes Cheerleading Camp, the varsity five captured two second and two fourth place ribbons. To initiate school spirit among the newest class at Morton, the varsity group performed at freshman orientation. New skirts and sweaters, pom pons and red and gray ponchos were purchased by the varsity cheerleaders.

Practicing gymnastics helped the cheerleaders improve coordination and add variety to their cheers. Seventh hour practice sessions were held several times a week by b-team and varsity groups while the freshman squad worked together after school.

DURING HALF-TIME at a Morton basketball game the varsity cheerleaders take time out to relax in the girls' locker room. Captain Carol Bertagnolli discusses game activities with squad, Miss Cheralyn Robinson and Mrs. Gwen Mangus, sponsor.

Athletics

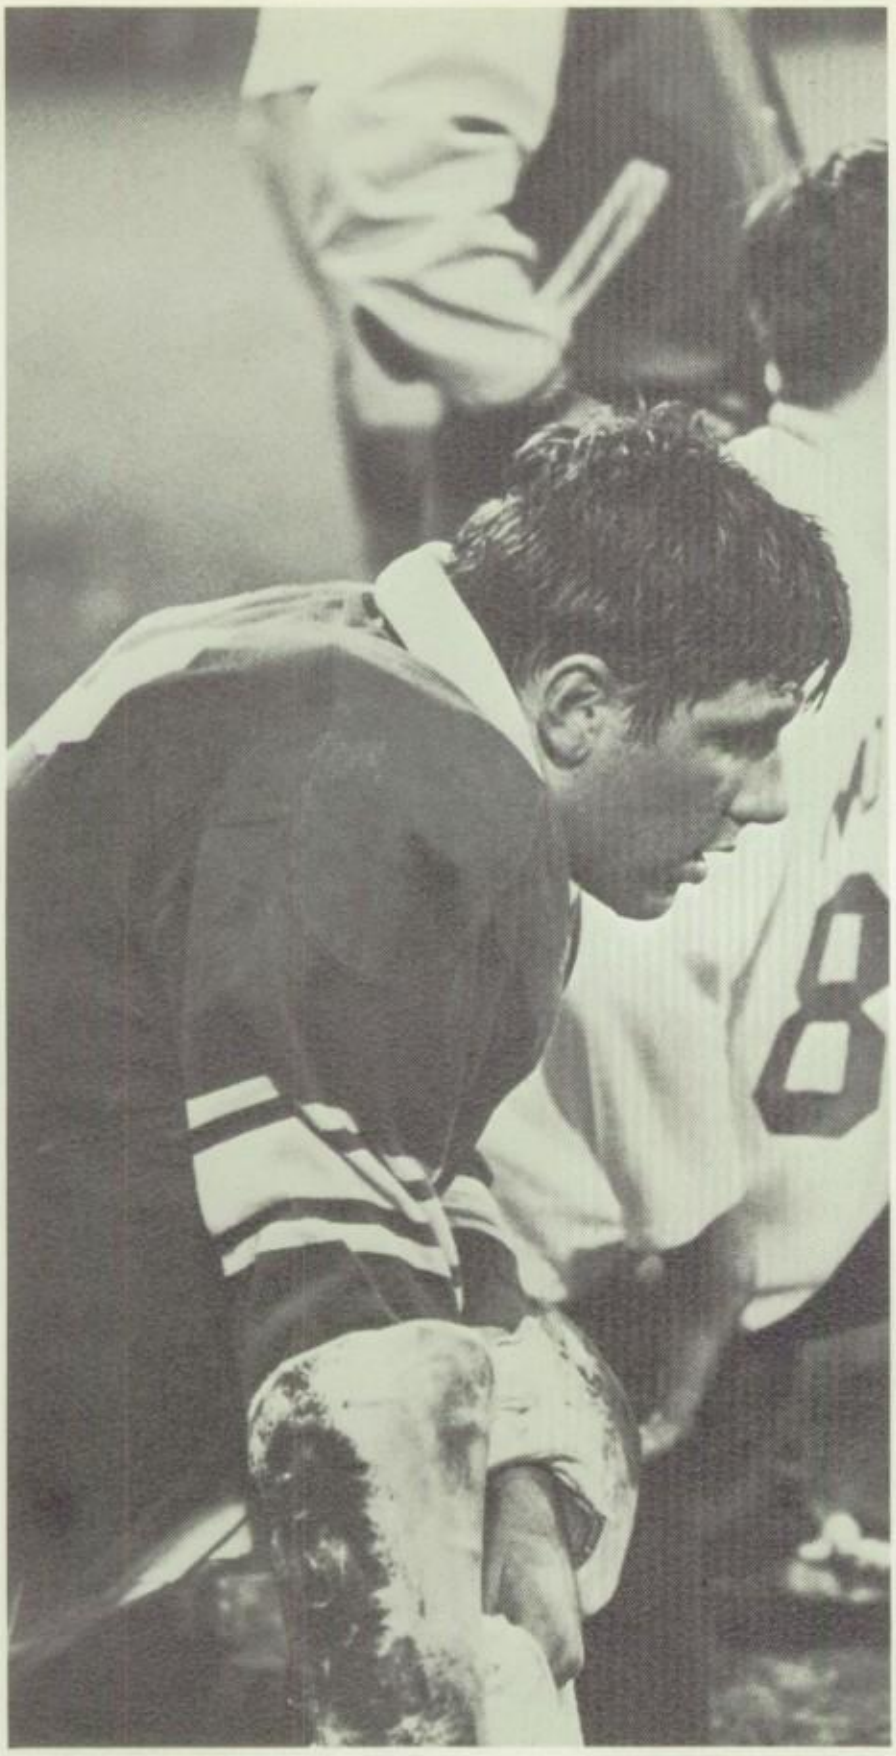
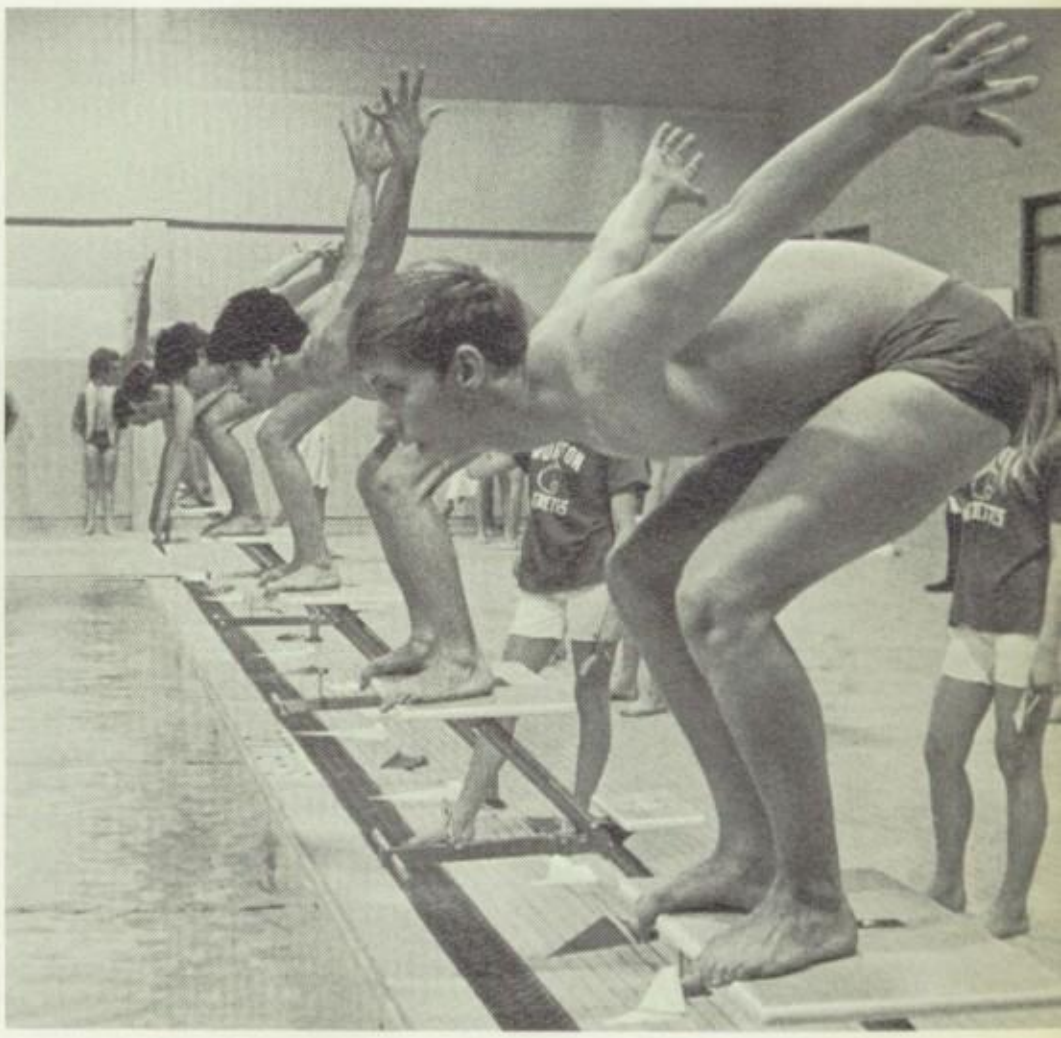
teams or individuals developing and then utilizing certain physical skills in order to excel above all other competition. To the athlete it may involve a baseball practice on a cold March day or a feeling of "letting the team down" after he fumbles the ball in the last quarter. But to the student who enthusiastically attends the games, athletics teaches him good sportsmanship and the emotions involved with success and defeat— a vital part of his high school experience.

A time-out allows the players to freshen up while the coach plots the strategy for the remainder of the game.



Each player does his best, then awaits the final outcome.



Team success rests upon the performance of the individuals.

Governor gridmen capture city crown,

In their bid for an undefeated season, this year's varsity football team began by winning the first three games over Clark, E.C. Washington and Hammond Tech. However, losing the next two games to Bishop Noll and E.C. Roosevelt, the squad was unable to extend their winning streak. Under the direction of Coach Maurey Zlotnik, the Governors ended the season with four wins out of five remaining contests. This brought the season record to 7-3.

Against Bishop Noll, Morton jumped off to a quick 6-0 lead. The score remained unchanged until late in the final period when Noll proceeded to score twice, overtaking the Governors for the victory.

Homecoming, played against E.C. Roosevelt, was quite similar. Again Morton led going into the last period but lost the lead when the opposition scored twice in the closing minutes of play.

Following these two setbacks the Morton squad bounced back to win the next four games, all by overwhelming scores. After a victory against Whiting "Big Red" defeated the Gavit Gladiators and Hammond High with scores of 33-13 and 26-0 respectively. The Governors went on to win a contest over Horace Mann the following week, but lost the final game of the season to Gary Andrean, 16-6.

Veteran team members aided the performance of the Morton tennis squad, which completed the season with a winning record of 5-4. Coach Ed Musselman's team placed third in the Lake Shore Conference and finished fourth in the Western Alliance.

Starting the season against the E.C. Roosevelt racketmen, the Governors emerged with a 3-2 victory. They proceeded to capture two more contests against E.C. Washington and Hobart by scores of 5-0 and 3-2. The Governors ran into four straight defeats at the hands of Valparaiso, Portage, Hammond High and Gavit, next on their schedule. The squad terminated the season by making an abrupt about face, defeating Tech and Clark both by 4-1 scores.

Major letter winners for the tennis squad were B. Bardoczi, J. Bardoczi, D. Bolt, M. Buechley, B. Carney, C. Dayhoff, T. Rowley. For the individual awards the team members selected Bill Bardoczi for the honor of team captain and Martin Buechley as the most valuable player of 1969.

Minor letters went to freshmen K. Bailor, C. Christy and R. Rowe. Twenty-one hopefuls tried out for the squad at the beginning of the season and the team finished with nineteen members.

Following the directions of Coach Joe DePeugh, the Morton cagers improved last year's standing by one game, posting an 8-12 record. Besides capturing the city championship, the roundballers placed high in the Lake Shore Conference, second only to winners of the Indiana State Tournament, E.C. Roosevelt.

As in the past, Highland battled Morton in the opening game. The Governors lost this contest and the following one to Lake Central. The squad picked up their first win by defeating Horace Mann 47-46. Out of the next four games Morton won one.

Moving down state for the Holiday Tournament, Morton came up against Plymouth who defeated them 71-63. The following game with Terre Haute Wiley eliminated MHS from the action as they fell 81-66.

Continuing their regular season play, Morton squeezed in a win over Hobart between losses to Gary Wirt and Valparaiso. The squad then lost the next three ball games, including one to Gavit in which the cagers fought their way from a 20 point deficit only to lose by three, 67-64.

Making a dramatic come-back, the roundballers concluded the schedule with five consecutive victories. The team rolled up some of their biggest scores of the season, bringing back their "fair weather" fans who had abandoned them weeks earlier.

The team selected Wayne Bocken as team captain and Mike Marshall as most valuable player.

Roundballers fall in defeat to Munster

Owners of a five game winning streak, the Morton roundballers looked hopefully to their sectional encounter with Munster, whom they defeated eight days earlier by 22 points.

In the opening minutes of the game it became evident that Morton was facing a more determined foe than during regular season play. An additional difficulty was a meager shooting average, 25 percent.

In an exceptionally slow paced first half the Govs hit only three shots from the field but managed a 10-9 lead. The second quarter remained slow with Morton retaining a slight lead by 20-17.

Munster secured the victory in the second half by outscoring Morton in the third quarter, 18-10. Unable to recover from the deficit, the game ended in a loss for MHS, 53-49.

Mike Marshall led the Governor attack with 17 points while Barrett Luketic's steady play earned 12. Wayne Bocken scored 9 with Randy Hlad and Tom Childress adding 7 and 4 points, respectively.

Three weeks after the close of the sectionals Wayne Bocken and Mike Marshall were named to the Lake Shore All-Conference team.

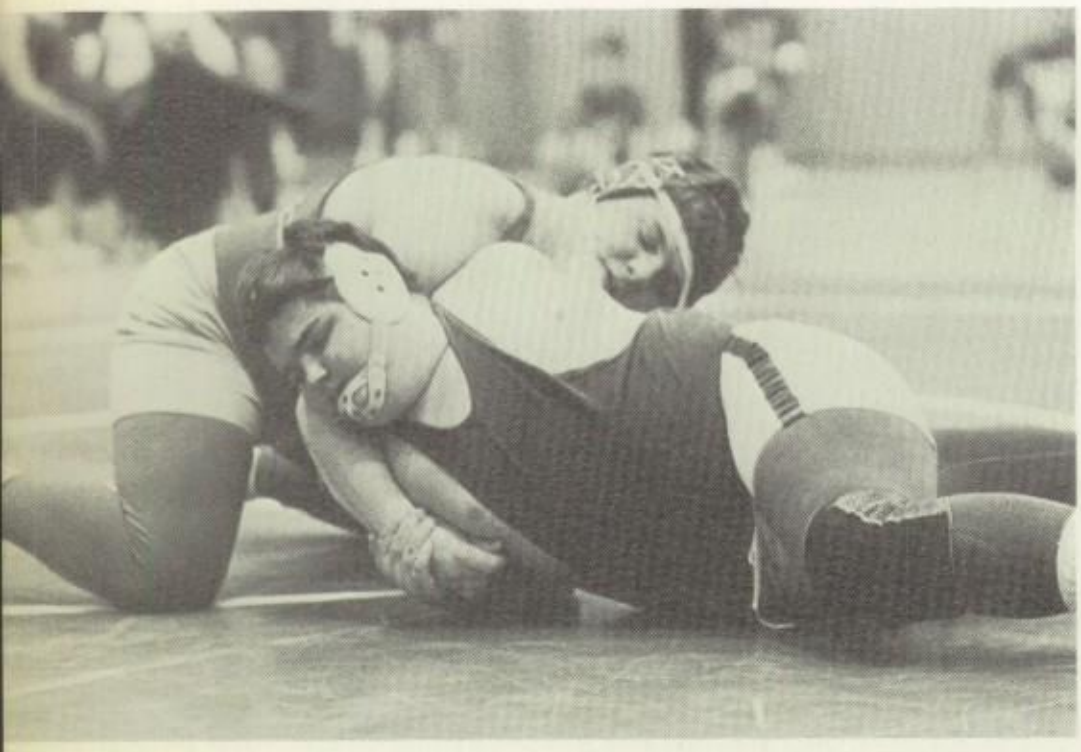
Matmen overcome Roosevelt, Whiting



POSITIONED FIRMLY, heavyweight Ken Stump succeeds in defeating Whiting opposition by a 16-0 decision.

Superior individual achievements highlighted the 1969-70 season of the varsity wrestling squad. During the competition of regular season play, the team record was 3-6-1, but several of Coach Robert Gollner's grapplers gained individual honors.

Losing their first three meets to Hammond High, Bishop Noll and Hammond Tech, the squad went on to run up their largest margin of victory by defeating the Rough Riders 44-8. Next on the schedule the Governors landed two seconds and a first in tourney play while tying Clark in regular match. Followed by victories against Whiting and E. C. Washington and a loss to Gavit, the squad hosted their own invitational tourney. Capturing a second in this contest, the Gov's closed out the season with losses to Portage and Gary Andrean.

Arnold Lord, the only Governor to survive the sectionals, finished the season with a 21-1 record. The team members also chose him as most valuable player. Cecil Depew and Bob Kuhn obtained records of 20-1-1 and 16-4-1, respectively. Each received the title of honorary team captain.

First defeating Hammond High and Tech, Morton's B-squad suffered their initial loss to Bishop Noll by a score of 30-15. The matmen's next two victories were one-sided matches in which they overcame E.C. Roosevelt by a score of 40-14 and Clark 24-2. After a final triumph over Gary Andrean, the B-team's season won and lost total was 6-3.

VIGOROUSLY STRUGGLING for another victory against a determined competitor is Morton Invitational champion Cecil Depew.

to become Griffith Invitational winners

Experience and an improved team effort aided the Governor tankmen to attain the best swimming record in Morton's history. Coach Bob Hunt's splashers ended the year with nine wins against three losses as compared with last year's 3-9 slate.

Defeating Hammond High 49-46 and Hammond Tech 51-44, the Morton swimmers jumped off to a good start. Portage and Bishop Noll, however, dropped them for their first two losses, 69-26 and 51-43, respectively. The squad then went on to win two consecutive meets against Highland and Lew Wallace before suffering the final loss of the season to the Valparaiso Vikings by a score of 51-43.

Finishing off the schedule, the Governors were able to capitalize on their mounting experience to defeat their last four opponents. Lowell, Whiting, Griffith and Noll all fell at the hands of the Governors during this string. The highlight of the season, however, came when the splashers were invited to participate in the Griffith Invitational meet along with Benton Central, Chesterton, Griffith and Lowell. The Governors brought the first place tournament trophy back to Morton.

Rudy Skorupa, already a two year letterman, set new school marks in the long jump with a leap of 22-ft. 7½ in. and in the 440-yard dash with a time of 51.1 seconds. He was also a member of the record-setting mile relay team along with Barrett Luketic, Wes Lukoshus and Bob Zbikowski. Skorupa captured the sectional long jump crown and was honored by being named the squad's most valuable member at the end of the season.

Junior Wes Lukoshus set and 880-yard run record with a time of 1:59.5. Bob Stevens was selected by the team to be captain.

Morton's B-team cinder performance assured Coach Luketic of an experienced and seasoned group for the 1970 season. The junior varsity team captured two midseason first place finishes against Munster and E.C. Washington scoring team highs of 63 and 59 points respectively. The squad also gained six second place finishes out of the twelve meets.

APPROACHING THE BALL, junior J. Zaremba (10) prepares to return a volley as G. Grunza breaks down-field.

Surpassing last season's 2-2 record was a goal easily and quickly accomplished by the 1969 soccer squad. Realizing the team's potential, Coach Bob Hunt worked the players into a well conditioned unit. Having attained the honor of city title, the Governors proved to be one of the finest teams in the area by achieving an 8-0 record.

Agility and near-perfect ball control made up Morton's high scoring offense. Leading scorers were co-captains Bob Chamberlain and Don Horvath with 8 and 7 goals, respectively. Better remembered for his talented display of ball handling, senior Terry Keith added an extra 5 goals.

Just as important to the team's success was a strong defense needing little assistance from the front line of players. Led by Jim Buckman, chosen most valuable player, defensemen Jack Babinec, Bob Ryckman, Mike Musgrove and Barry Schrock usually managed to keep the ball on the opposite side of the field. Steve Sasko gave the team an added advantage through his fine skills as goalie. The Morton team allowed an average of only 1.1 goals per game while their scoring average was 3.0 per game.

Mr. Bob Gollner will head the soccer team this year. Because many of last year's first string players will not be returning, the Governors will have a challenge to duplicate the past success. However, Mr. Gollner looks forward to a good season.

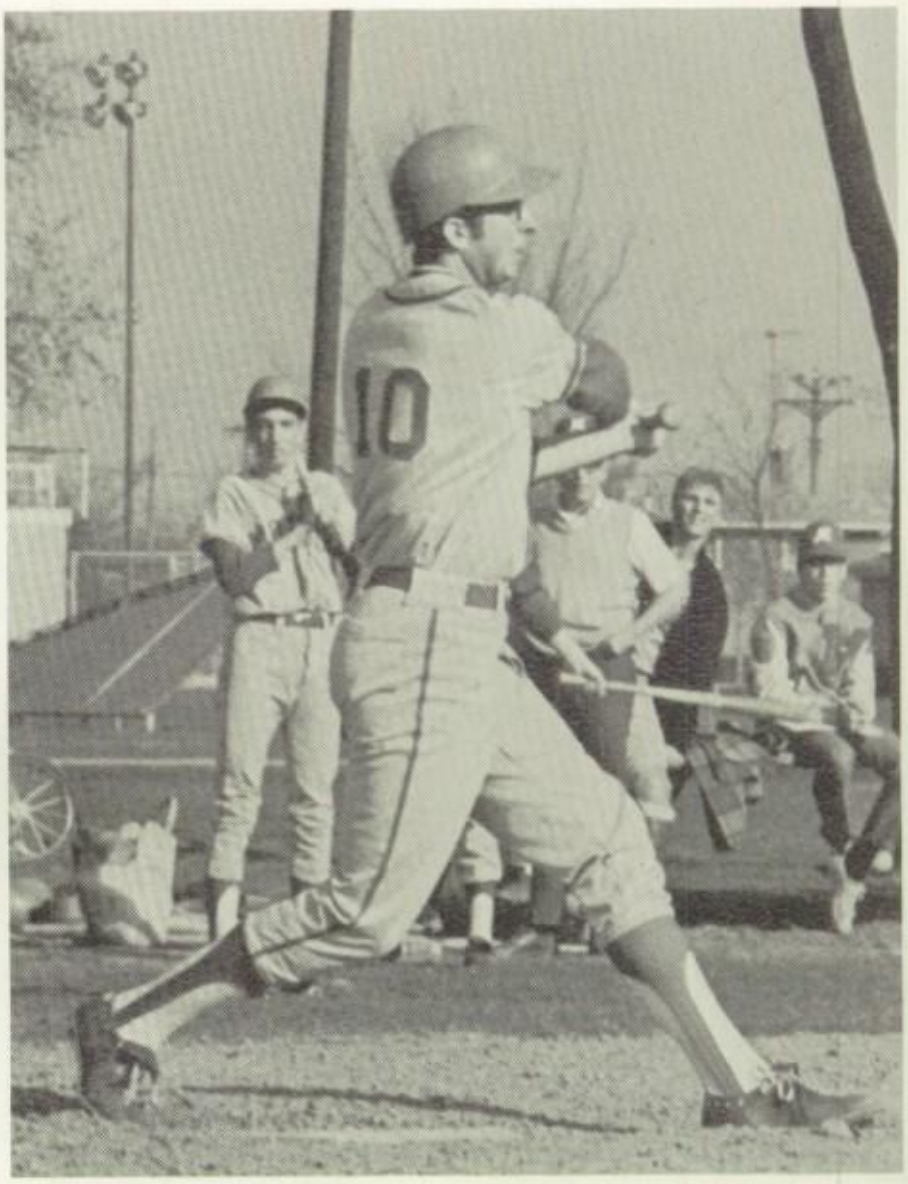
Morton baseball squad takes sectional,

Led on by the charges of head coach Jack Georgas the Morton Governors completed their regular season with a winning record of 10-9. The baseball squad also won their second sectional championship.

Beginning their season slowly, the Governors captured only one victory in their initial four contests. As the season progressed, however, so did the Morton baseball squad. Twice during the year the Governors came up with strings of three straight wins.

In sectional competition the Governors defeated Highland 3-2 and E.C. Roosevelt 7-2 before facing E.C. Washington in the title contest. The Governors then conquered the Senators in an extra inning affair. This 2-1 victory enabled the Governors to compete in the regionals at Block Stadium where they went down to defeat, 9-2, in the first afternoon contest at the hands of Crown Point.

The team selected Roger Hankins as most valuable player of the season and Gary Madison as team captain. For the entire season the ball crew outscored its opponents 89 runs to 72 runs and finished with a team batting average of .234.



AS TEAMMATES LOOK ON, senior F. Rakoczy delivers a base hit enroute to a Morton victory.

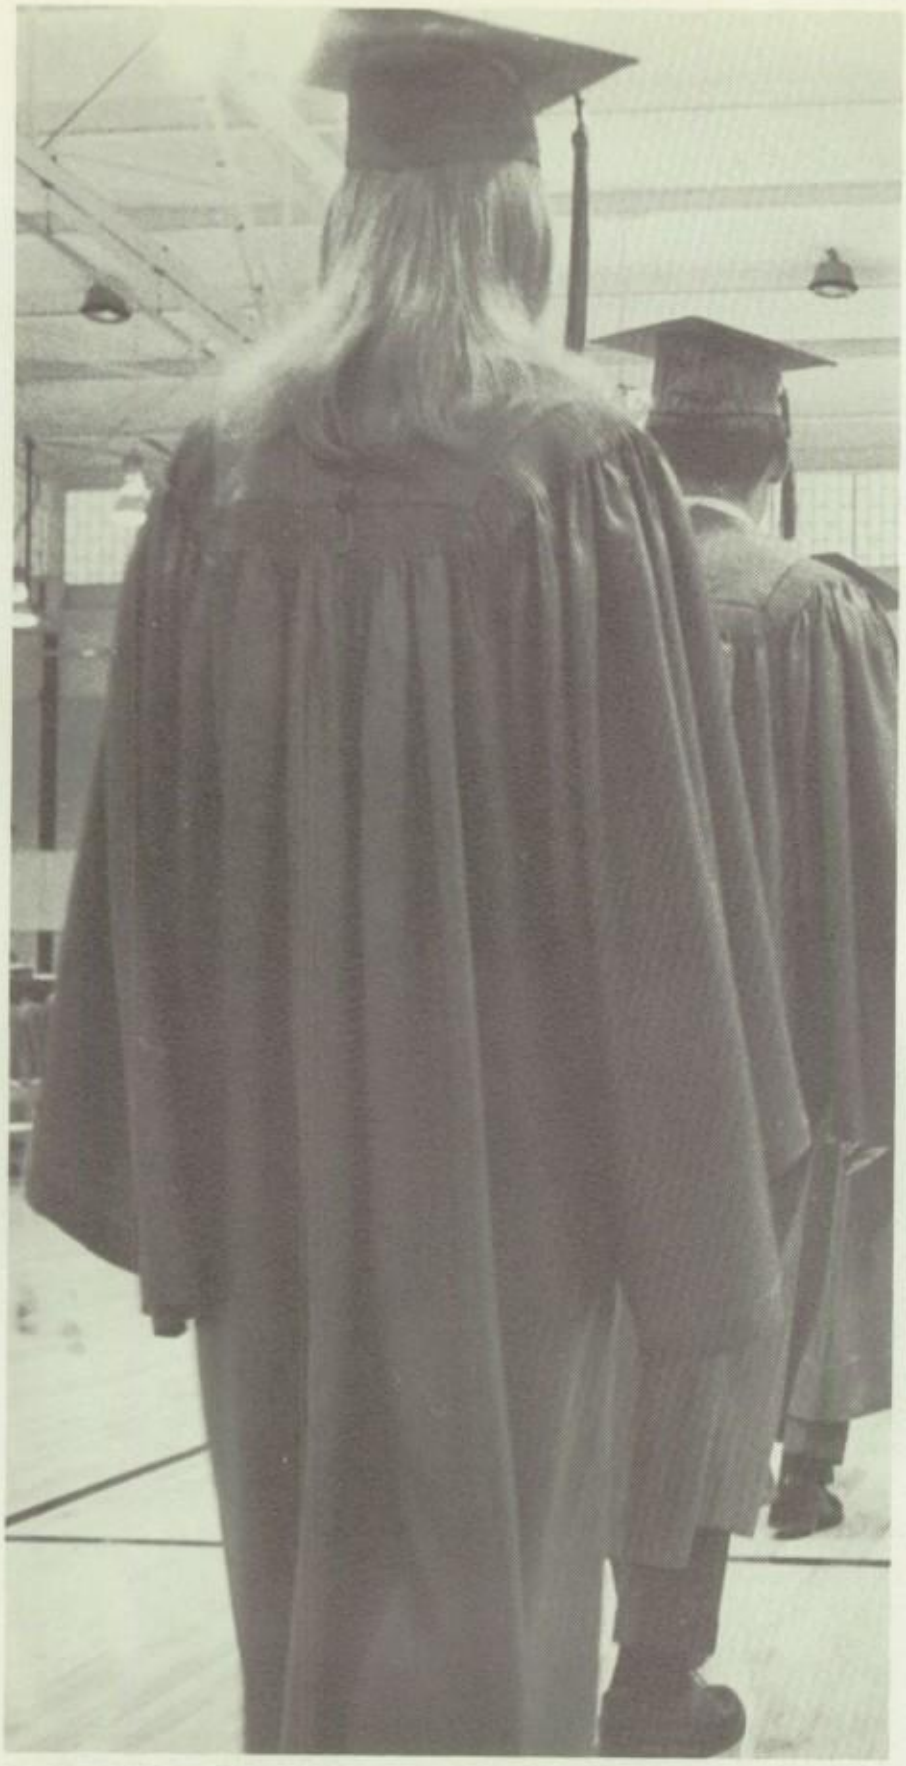
Governors. The lifeblood of the school upon which all scholastic, athletic and club activities depend. Upperclassmen assume most of the responsibilities of student affairs but without the support of freshmen and sophomores are not able to carry out their duties. As a high school year progresses students form new friendships with their peers and members of the faculty, giving them a greater understanding of their fellow man.

At the annual Senior-Faculty and Booster Club games, the student body joins the faculty for an evening of fun.



In solemn ceremony, four memorable years are concluded.

Lunch hours can be spent in the courtyard on warm days.

Seniors decide on baccalaureate date

Seniors began their final year in high school by preparing for homecoming activities. Constructing the float frame and folding paper flowers dominated much of their free time. The theme of the float, "Govs Got Soul" won the first place award.

Led by executive board members, seniors chose burgundy and wheat as colors for cords to be worn on Thursdays. Guided by class sponsors Miss Jacqueline Martine and Mr. Robert Welte, they ordered graduation announcements. The '70's also sponsored the senior dance held on March 13.

Outstanding students received honors at the traditional senior banquet held at the Log restaurant. An assembly was given during school to present students with scholarships and awards.

Because of their enthusiasm shown during sectional week, seniors earned the "spirit rock." "Senior Week" included a "Little Kids Day", a "Bermuda Day" and a "Dress Up Day."

Graduation held different meanings for various students. For some the accomplished academic courses and entrance exams now enabled them to enter college. To others, taking vocational-oriented subjects allowed them to enter into businesses well prepared. Graduation was the climax of all the meaningful events of high school days, leaving the '70's with fond memories. Baccalaureate was held May 31 while commencement was June 4, 1970.

SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT Wes Lukoshus thinks carefully about his future as he glances through a college guide.

Juniors choose class officers, sell helmet

PREPARED TO BUY a bank, Debra Pawlak gives her money to Nancy Peeler while Brenda O'Neal examines the purchase.

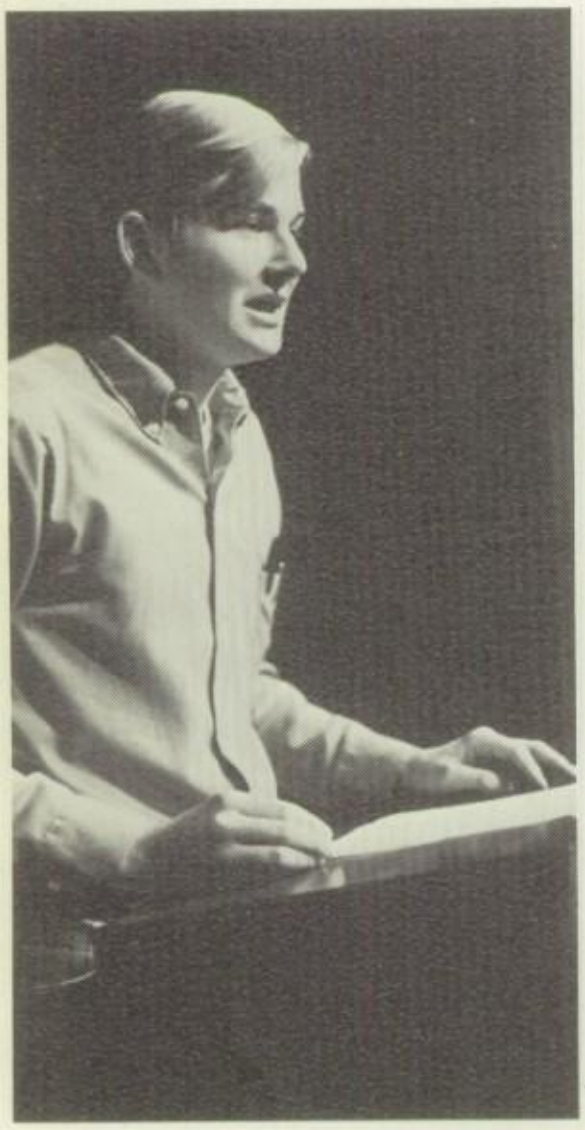
Having completed half of their high school experience, members of the class of '71 began the school year by electing representatives to the junior executive board. These members, as well as the class officers and sponsors Mrs. Janet Hetterscheidt and Mr. Ernest Alexander, helped the class to organize and make decisions concerning their responsibilities as upperclassmen.

One of the first duties facing the class was finding a method for securing treasury funds. Early in the year exec board members voted to sell Governor helmet banks in each junior homeroom.

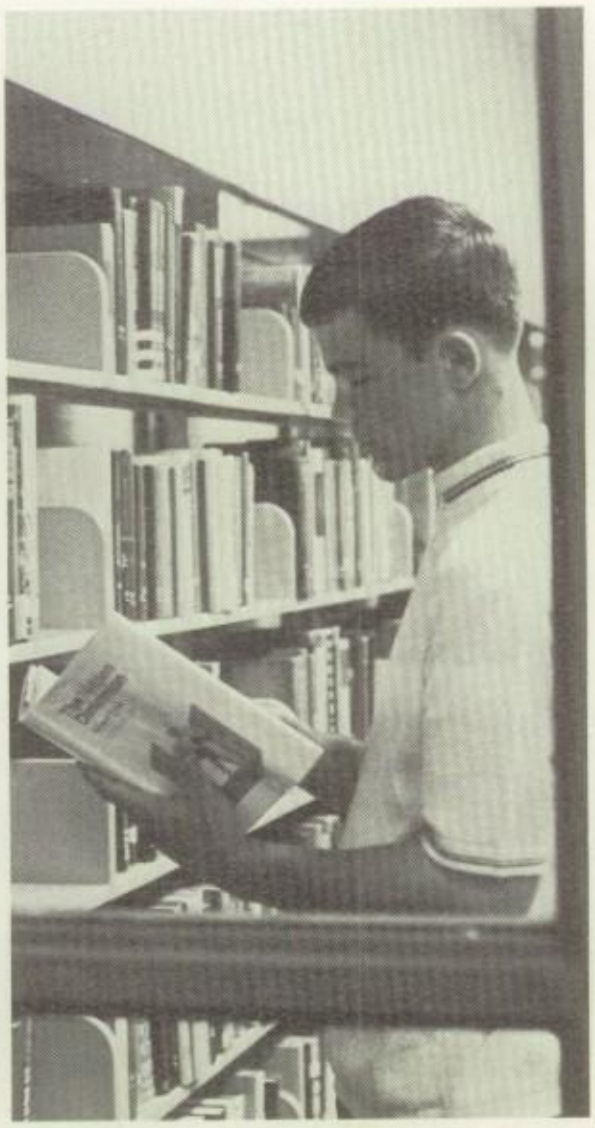
Constructing the junior homecoming float and determining the theme "Catch 'Em in Our Trap," the board made preparations for the annual fall event. Members also planned the prom "Moonlight Oasis," held on May 23 at the Sherwood Club.

For the second consecutive year a second place honor was awarded to a member of the class of '71 in the annual Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by the VFW. The theme for this year's speech was "Freedom's Challenge." Each composition was taped and judged on content, originality and delivery.

Juniors received a second place honor in spirit competition during homecoming. For enthusiasm shown at sectionals they obtained a third place.



CONCERNED about class activities, President Russell Friend makes a speech regarding homecoming preparations.



REFERENCE MATERIAL for assignments and class discussion is sought by Junior Vice-President Tom Goldschmidt.

AFTER A HECTIC DAY of studies and activities pertaining to her class, Secretary Sue Hatfield heads home.

TAKING TIME OUT before the usual morning rush, soph class officers Dave Keilman (Pres.), Ronni Vela (Sec.) and Nicki Luketic (V. Pres.) ponder their duties as officers.

UNDECIDED ABOUT A SCHEDULE, soph Gloria Joseph listens while counselor Mr. Drechny advises her.

Clothed in their best attire second year students demonstrated school loyalty on January 20. This marked their first dress-up day.

Experienced sophomores became more familiar with school proceedings and with the aid of counselors planned their schedules. Most of them took the first basic academic requirements, allowing them to choose electives for future studies.

This year's sophs participated actively in extra curricular organizations. To illustrate their enthusiasm and team support, they united efforts to win the trophy for the most originally decorated car in the 1969 homecoming parade.

To take part in class-color week, Tuesdays were designated for the soph's wearing of green. Having the largest enrollment, the '72's represented the majority in spirit competitions among classes.

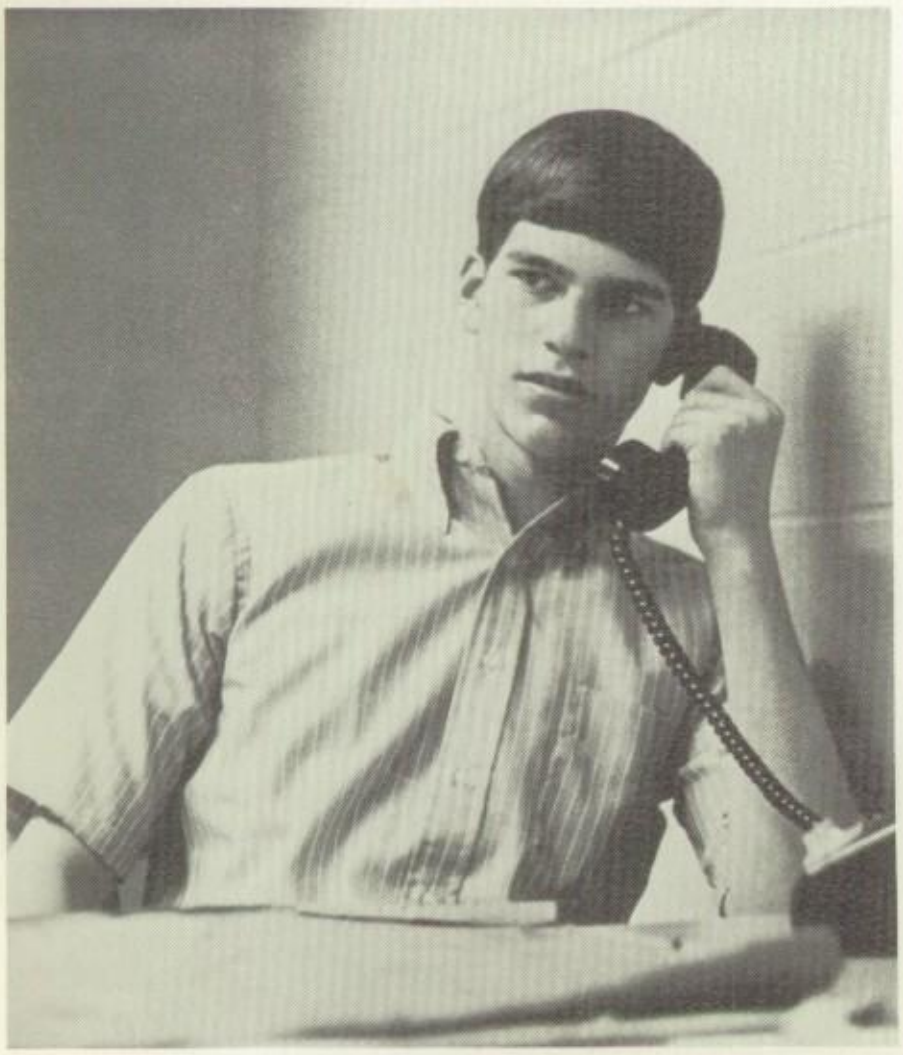
FILING IMPORTANT INFORMATION for quick reference is freshman Vice President Dave Simchak.

CLASS DUES are counted by freshman Secretary Dave Rush. These funds are essential for future activities.

Election of officers begins school year



FROSH PRESIDENT Jack Josway uses the telephone as a means to complete details when arranging class activities.

Getting acquainted with new surroundings was the first big step for incoming frosh. They received their schedules and a brief introduction to the school building during annual orientation.

School involvement played an important part for the class of '73. Athletic, social and academic organizations motivated interested frosh members to further develop their skills and abilities. Clubs united these students and enabled them to work at bake sales and serve on dance committees.

Homerooms selected students to represent their opinions as well as inform them about Association meetings. Brown was voted as the official color to be worn Mondays by first year Governors.

In need of organization and leaders, frosh chose officers to direct and plan future activities. These officers appointed Mr. Dennis Zelenke as freshman advisor to help create spirit and guide decisions concerning the class.

Homecoming proved to be a different experience for freshmen. Many homerooms entered a decorated car in the parade. Two students presented the crown and roses to the new homecoming queen, even though the class was not permitted to vote for her.

Freshmen were included in all pep sessions, sign meetings and spirit week. They ranked second in enthusiasm during sectionals.

Class of '73 unites by wearing brown

Dr. Medcalf procures position of school

CHIEF DIRECTOR of Morton's administration, Principal William Winston Becker keeps in touch with faculty and pupils through a daily announcement sheet.

Serving as principal of Morton for the ninth year, Mr. William Winston Becker saw that the faculty had adequate facilities and approved all club activities. Mr. Walter Ruff, Dean of Students, supervised pupil attendance and decorum.

Coming to the Governor mansion from the Whiting school system, Mr. Philip Mateja assumed the responsibilities of assistant principal. Mr. Mateja's duties included developing a master program schedule, coordinating the extra-curricular program and scheduling the use of the building.

Dr. Robert L. Medcalf was chosen last September by the Hammond School Board to serve as superintendent. During the school year Mr. Medcalf spoke at a Morton PTA meeting. The School Board was responsible for making policies and handling fiscal matters of the Hammond school system.

To learn about student home life, Mrs. Eileen Kruger, school social worker, visited homes. Miss Gail Brown, therapist, aided pupils with speech and hearing defects during school hours.

Teacher and student representatives met at the close of last year to revise the dress code. Faculty members also chaperoned school activities and worked on a dance committee which submitted a list of rules for dances to the Association.

EXECUTIVE HEAD of Hammond Public Schools, Superintendent Robert Medcalf makes all administrative decisions.

JOINING THE MHS administrative staff as assistant principal, Mr. Mateja initiated the daily "Thought for the Day."

Advertising

ADVERTISING \ˌadvə(r)ˈ tīziŋ\ n.
the process of informing the public about available products or services. In addition to being a student, high school youths are also consumers. Among the innumerable items they buy are contact lenses, gasoline, wigs, "Whoppers," pop posters and army surplus clothes. Besides providing job opportunities for Governors, local businesses lend support to school activities through buying ads.
